NEWS SUMMARY

THE SITUATION IN THE FAR EAST.

A captured Russian officer describing the naval battle said the Japanese opened the attack and the Russian line soon became confused, many vessels surrendering. Only four of the vessels of Rojestvensky's fleet are known to have reached Vladivostok—the cruiser Almaz and the torpedo boat destroyers Grosny, Bravi and Terosliahty. The full extent of the Russian casualties in men and officers drowned, wounded or captured is not known. The Japanese losses, as reported from Tokyo, are only about 200 men killed or disabled. Not one of the big fighting ships of the Japanese navy was lost. It is now definitely known that Vice Admiral Rojestvensky is captured. He is seriously wounded, but it is stated from Tokyo, will recover. Admiral Voelkersam is supposed to have perished.—Page 1.

The czar Wednesday summoned to the palace at Tsarskoe-Selo all the members of the imperial family and later called into extraordinary council Admiral Alexieff and all his ministers of state, and a series of conferences took place as to the course to be pursued. The result of these conferences is in doubt, the ministers on returning to St. Petersburg being observing a cautious reticence as to what took place. It is believed, however, that the emperor is determined on a prosecution of the war, the government fearing the effects of the disaster on the Russian people.—Page 1.

BOMB THROWN AT CARRIAGE CONVEYING KING OF SPAIN AND PRESIDENT OF FRANCE

Anarchist's Weapon Explodes, but Without Injury to Either of the Nations' Rulers.

SOLDIERS OF ESCORT WOUNDED

The Assassination of Alfonso and Loubet Is Attempted as They Are Leaving the Opera in Paris After a Gala Performance—Three Persons Suspected of Participation and Complicity in the Plot Are Arrested.

SPECIAL CABLE FROM LA PRENSA.
(Copyright, 1905, by New York Herald Co.)

PARIS, June 1.—As King Alfonso was leaving the opera last night in a carriage with President Loubet, surrounded by mounted municipal guards, a bomb was hurled at the cortege and the youthful monarch had a narrow escape from death.

The Place de L'Opera was packed with a dense crowd as the king and his escort rode, surrounded by their guard. On arriving at the corner of the Rue de Ropan and the Rue de Rivoli, just before crossing the Seine, to return to the palace on the Quai d'Orsay, someone threw a bomb at the carriage. It exploded just as the vehicle was passing, about five feet away, part of the projectile damaging the rear wheel of the carriage and killing one of the horses of a guard.

Eight soldiers were wounded by pieces of the missile. In spite of great excitement among the crowd the police closed in and the carriage continued on its way to the Palais d'Orsay. There it was found that many other horses of the guards had been injured.

Explosion Was Terrific.

M. Lepine, prefect of police, personally made three arrests, one of whom is named Arnould, an employe at a laboratory. Domiciliary visits are being made this morning at the lodgings of the persons arrested. The explosion of the bomb was a very great one, being heard nearly three-quarters of a mile away. The person who is believed to have thrown the bomb has been arrested.

PARIS, June 1.—King Alfonso and President Loubet had been cheered along the route to the opera by enthusiastic crowds, the young monarch having completely gained the hearts of Parisians since his arrival here.

The gala performance comprised "Samson and Delilah" and "Maladetta." When King Alfonso and President Loubet entered the building surrounded by a brilliant staff and followed by nearly the entire diplomatic corps and superior officials, the house which was composed of the elite of French society rose and cheered, while the orchestra played the Spanish and French national anthems.

The performance went without a hitch. His majesty chatted gaily with President Loubet during the intermissions, and at the close of the performance the orchestra again played the national hymns of the two countries and the king and president arose to leave.

Crowds Cheered the Rulers.

They proceeded down the grand staircase and arrived at the gaily illuminated and decorated Place de L'Opera, where the royal carriage awaited them. The king and president took seats side by side and the vehicle started off surrounded by several squadrons of cuirassiers toward the Avenue Opera.

The space around the opera house was cleared for 200 yards, but the avenue was packed with a dense throng which, while awaiting the passage of the royal and presidential parties, admired the charming scene, the decorations extending as far as the Palais Royal.

When the king's carriage passed at a gallop, followed by others containing the diplomatic corps and the ministers, the crowd cheered itself hoarse, shouting: "Long live the king!" and "Long live the president!" The procession arrived at the end of the avenue de L'Opera and crossed palace Theater Francais, where were assembled at least 1,500 persons in the rue de Rohan, a short street forming practically a continuation of the avenue de L'Opera, right opposite the arched gateway of the Louvre leading to the place Caroussel.

Caused Intense Excitement.

There just a few yards before reaching the rue Rivoli a man sprang forward with his arm raised in the air, and before the cordon of police could prevent him he, without uttering a word, threw a projectile in the direction of the royal carriage. The police immediately rushed toward him. At that moment a deafening explosion occurred. Cries from the crowd were heard and a scene of intense excitement began, the crowd surging to and fro. Soldiers were seen to fall, but as the flash from the bomb died out it was observed that the king and the president had not been struck and their carriage proceeded on its way.

The bomb had been thrown with too great force and passed over the royal carriage and struck the shoulder of a cuirassier and then fell to the ground, where it exploded, fragments of it striking the horses of the soldiers, causing them to bolt and throw their riders. Capt. Schueider, who was riding at the right side of the carriage, and Capt. Garnier, who was on the left, were both thrown. Fragments of the bomb also struck five persons—a sergeant, two policemen, a woman, who was seriously injured, and a child, who was struck in the eye. One horse of the escort was killed outright and six others lay about maimed and bleeding.

Darkness and Confusion.

The force of the explosion was terrific and caused a rearrangement of the electric lights, which were all extinguished, adding darkness to the scene of confusion. Women and children screamed and a panic was for a time threatened in the vast throng until the police succeeded in restoring order. In the meantime the remainder of the escort to the royal carriage had closed around the vehicle, which disappeared under the archway of the Louvre.

The young king was to be seen sitting beside the president. He was pale but apparently calm. Just before the carriage disappeared the king called one of the attaches to the Spanish embassy and sent him back to make inquiries concerning the wounded. Then the carriage drove off to the Palais D'Orsay, hemmed in by troops and cavalry. The police immediately gathered in strong force and cleared the surrounding streets and began attending the wounded, who were carried to a nearby hotel.

Woman Saw Bomb Thrower.

Immediately following the explosion an individual was seen to dash into the crowd but men seized him before he could escape and turned him over to the police. He is believed to have been the author of the outrage.

Many other arrests were effected. The first person taken was a man about 20 years old having an injured eye. It was not known whether his wound was caused by the explosion or by the violence of the crowd. He refuses to speak.

A woman informed the police that she saw the man under a neighboring gateway talking to two men just before the explosion. He had something conical shaped in his hand. She also declares that she saw him lighting what she now considers must have been a fuse, but at the time, she says, she did not pay much attention to him.

Other persons arrested on suspicion of being accomplices in the deed refuse to give information regarding the man believed to be responsible for the outrage. Throughout the night excited crowds remained outside the cordons of police and soldiers drawn about the scene of the explosion and where officials from the municipal laboratory are searching for fragments of the bomb.

At 2 o'clock this morning the prefect of police interrogated those arrested, who described themselves as follows: Louis Finot, aged 22, a tailor; Marcel Hauten, aged 14, a glass blower; Ferdinand Boler, aged 21, a florist. It is not known whether they belong to the group which organized the outrage. They will be put through a series of interrogations. Meanwhile they are held at the disposition of the police.

ACCUSED MAN CUTS THROAT.

Five Minutes After Warrant Is Served, Book-Keeper Charged With Larceny Commits Suicide.

NEW YORK, May 31.—(Special.)—Within five minutes of the time that a policeman served on him a warrant charging grand larceny, Benjamin M. Clark, bookkeeper for Frederick T. Nesbit & Co., wholesale lumber dealers of 116 Nassau street, cut his throat in the bath room of his home.

Clark had been ill at his home for three weeks and was in bed when Policeman Flood called at the house. Flood kept his prisoner in view until the latter entered the bath room and closed the door. Flood, a few minutes later, becoming suspicious, he opened the door and saw the accused bookkeeper stretched out in the bath tub with his throat cut.

LAUDER'S YACHT FINISHES FOURTH

Pittsburgh Man Gets Across the Atlantic Among the Early Ones in the Race.

OTHERS ARE STRAGGLING IN

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PENZANCE, June 1.—The Endymion, the yacht owned by George Lauder of Pittsburgh, finished fourth in the race for the kaiser's cup, last night. The Endymion crossed the line at 9:34 p. m., the earl of Crawford's Valhalla, beating her for third place by one hour and 26 minutes.

Thus far the honors have been fairly divided between the three countries represented. America has won first and fourth places with the Atlantic and the Endymion, Germany takes second place with the Hamburg, and England third, with the Valhalla.

Close behind the Endymion came the American yacht Hildegarde, which finished at 10:08 last night. Sixth place was captured by the Sombeam, which crossed the line at 11:40. The Fleur de Lys, owned by Lewis A. Stinson of the New York Yacht club, finished at 2:48 o'clock this morning.

In view of the fact that the winds were far too light for a big ship like the Valhalla to show her best speed, she made a remarkably fine trip, covering 3,159 miles in 14 days, 2 hours and 53 minutes. At that she sailed 181 miles further than the Atlantic and 107 miles more than the Hamburg.

TWENTY-ONE MINERS HAVE BEEN RESCUED

Heroic Rescuers Sink Shaft and Save Imprisoned Workmen in Tunnel. Five Killed by the Cave-in.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MONTROSE, COL., May 31.—At least five men were killed and two seriously injured by the caving in of the Gunnison reclamation mine tunnel.

The dead:

Edward Schuler, Gettysburg, Pa.; Floyd Woodruff, Montrose; A. B. Stalle, Oklahoma; Charles Hormhart and James Cassidy.

C. Taylor and Fred Groff were pinned under heavy timbers and terribly injured. They would have been drowned but for the efforts of their entombed companions who improvised a dam to hold back the water which poured into the tunnel for a time.

Twenty-one men were rescued, uninjured, but exhausted. They were hoisted with ropes through a shaft which had been sunk 60 feet in less than 24 hours. The rescuers worked in three minute relays until the tunnel was reached.

WOMAN CAPTAIN SAVES THE SHIP

Brave Mrs. Green, the Only Woman Pilot on Local Rivers, Stills a Panic.

LANDS PASSENGERS IN SAFETY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GALLIPOLIS, O., May 31.—(Special.)—By her heroism Capt. Mary B. Green of Cincinnati stopped a panic among passengers on two steamboats in the Kanawha river last night. The steamer Greenland, which she commands, collided during a terrific windstorm, with a floating theater. The theater boat, as well as her own was crowded with pleasure-seekers.

With an infant in her arms Capt. Green stood at her post and gave orders and commands to her crew and passengers. Through her coolness she succeeded in landing all safely. On the decks of the theater boat some of the panic-stricken man and women started to escape by jumping into the river. Capt. Green's cool head and self-possession manifested itself. With stern command she ordered them to be calm and retire to their seats.

Capt. Green, who is the only woman captain of a steamboat on the Ohio, is the wife of Capt. Gordon Green, manager of the Cincinnati & Portsmouth Packet Company. She has commanded river steamers of her husband's boat line for years. Having full charge of the packet boat Greenland in the upper Ohio and Kanawha river trade is part of her duties. She is a member of the various masters' and pilots' associations existing on the inland waterways and on last Saturday she acted as chaplain at the meeting of Masters' and Pilots' Association harbor No. 25 at Pittsburgh.

NO DINNER FOR CASSINI.

Invitations to Complimentary Banquet for Russia's Ambassador Have Been Recalled.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—It had been proposed by American friends to tender a personal, complimentary dinner to Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador just prior to his retirement from his post here. In view, however, of recent events in the far east, it has been deemed advisable to recall the invitations.

At the reception of Senor Nabuco, the new Brazilian ambassador, to the diplomatic corps this afternoon Count Cassini and Mr. Takahira were the centers of two groups of diplomats with whom they discussed the momentous events of the last few days, but the ambassador and the minister did not come in contact.

GET AN EMPTY BAG.

Desperate Thieves Hold Up a Bank Messenger in Crowded Streets and Get Nothing.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Four robbers held up Charles Keuhn, a messenger of the Yorkville bank of this city, in a crowded business section aft Houston and Hudson streets today, choked him and robbed him of an empty bag.

Keuhn was on his way to other banks, from which he usually returned with the bag filled with thousands of dollars in gold and notes. Three of the robbers escaped. The fourth, an ex-convict named Hogan, who only a short time ago finished a 12-year sentence for highway robbery, was pursued and captured by a detective after he had attempted to shoot his pursuer.

BONAPARTE TO SUCCEED MORTON

President Names Baltimore Reformer and Independent Republican for the Place.

CHANGE EFFECTIVE JULY 1

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 31.

On July 1 Paul Morton, secretary of the navy, will retire from the cabinet and will be succeeded by Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore, grandson of Jerome Bonaparte, king of Westphalia. The announcement of the retirement of Mr. Morton and the selection of Mr. Bonaparte to succeed him was made at the White House this afternoon.

Mr. Bonaparte is an Independent Republican who has for many years been identified with reform movements. His advocacy of political reforms attracted him to the president and they became fast friends. He has not been identified with the Republican organization of Maryland and his appointment to a cabinet position was made without the indorsement of the organization. It was at President Roosevelt's suggestion that Mr. Bonaparte was employed as special counsel to prosecute the postoffice conspirators. He was born in Baltimore on June 9, 1851, and has lived there all his life. He is a graduate of Harvard university and Harvard law school, finishing the latter course in 1874.

Mr. Morton to Go to New York.

The facts concerning Secretary Morton's retirement were contained in the following bulletin issued at the navy department:

Paul Morton announces that he will retire from the cabinet on July 1, 1905. He will go to New York to live and will become associated with Thomas F. Ryan. It is understood that Mr. Morton will at once take active charge of the plans for the construction of a proposed comprehensive system of underground rapid transit lines in New York city for operation in connection with the existing surface lines.

This announcement was made after an extended conference between Secretary Morton and the president today. It had been understood for some time that Mr. Morton would leave the cabinet, probably some time during the summer, but the date was decided upon today.

Paul Morton assumed the duties of secretary of the navy on July 1, 1904, and he has been one of the fusion officials in the government's service. With characteristic energy he started out at the beginning to master the details of the work and he labored early and late until he became familiar with them. He admitted at the outset that his career as a railroad man had not taught him anything about ships; in fact he confessed that he wouldn't know a cruiser from a tug unless someone told him which was which.

Put New Life in Department.

But President Roosevelt informed him that a technical man was not needed at the head of the department. The naval service is full of men who know all about the ships. What was wanted was a man with administrative ability, with the ability to see that the technical men did their duty and did it well.

Within the space of 11 months Mr. Morton has injected more ginger and hustle into the navy department than it ever knew within the same period before. He has impressed his forceful way of accomplishing things upon the bureau chiefs

JAPAN'S FLEET BEGINS FIGHT

Captured Russian Officer Describes the Historic Naval Conflict.

FALL INTO A PANIC

Surrounded by Mikado's Warships, Many of the Czar's Vessels Are Surrendered.

VOELKERSAM PROBABLY DEAD

(ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.)

ST. PETERSBURG, June 1.—Another Russian torpedo boat destroyer, the Terosliahty, has arrived at Vladivostok.

Persistent but unconfirmed reports are in circulation to the effect that the protected cruiser Jemtchug has arrived at Vladivostok, and private messages from that vessel are said to have been received by the relatives of her officers here, but the admiralty as yet does not include her in the list of vessels which escaped.

LONDON, June 1.—The Daily Mail's Tokyo correspondent says the capture of the Russian cruiser Admiral Nakhimoff, who is now a prisoner, relates the following story of the battle between the Japanese and Russian fleets:

"We first saw the Japanese at 4 o'clock on the morning of May 27, when suddenly and unexpectedly we encountered the enemy's fleet as we were moving to the east of Tsu island. They steamed toward us and opened fire. Only 20 minutes after the firing began a sudden shock was felt under the Admiral Nakhimoff and she began to sink with great rapidity. My belief is that she either struck a mine or a torpedo. My crew numbered 900 men, a majority of whom went down in the ship, as there was no time to get the men on deck.

Line in Confusion.

"Myself and a number of survivors, aided by Hobelik, swam to a small launch, and about 10 o'clock in the morning we went aboard a fishing boat. All of the officers were sent to Shimonoseki.

"In the engagement fought off Liancourt rocks the Russian battleships were surrounded by Japanese ships, which circled about them, pouring in a terrible fire, and they almost immediately fell into hopeless confusion. Seeing their plight, Vice Admiral Togo signaled from the battleship Mikasa a demand to know whether the Russians were ready to surrender. Our ships complied with the demand."

Other accounts of the battle describe the roar of the cannonade as so terrific that houses were shaken at Yamaguchi, 28 miles distant, and the people supposed it was an earthquake.

The Japanese fleet suffered little. The battleship Asahi was offensive hit and suffered the heaviest loss, but did not quit the firing line. Kamimura was sent southward with the deliberate purpose of beginning the battle with a small squadron. He, however, allowed the Russians to pass him. Then Rear Admiral Uriu broke in upon them from Ki island and passed across the head of the third line, raking them again and again.

Submarines Are Used.

Japanese submarine boats, the correspondent says, proved most effective. The armored cruiser Vladimir Monomach hoisted the white flag during the battle and with 100 of her crew surrendered.

The repair ship Kamchatka was badly hit early in the battle. Her steering gear was so disabled she could only circle round and round. While in this condition a shell hit her engines, completely disabling her. Fifty-six of her crew took to the boats, but these were barely lowered when the Kamchatka sank with a tremendous roar. Her captain was killed, three officers were drowned and two were wounded, while the fate of the others is uncertain.

One of the Kamchatka's officers, who, in a boat, saw the Japanese close around three Russian battleships which were sinking, and torpedoes appeared to be exploding all about them.

MOSCOW, May 31.—The Russky Slovo prints a dispatch from Vladivostok, describing Saturday's battle and giving the Japanese losses on that day as three ships sunk—a three-funneled vessel, a cruiser of the Nisshin type and a third, the type of which has not been determined.

Another Version of Fight.

According to the dispatch the battle opened on the morning of May 27 when the Japanese armored cruiser and four protected cruisers appeared before the Russians. The battleship Nicholas I. opened fire on the Japanese, who retired. Admiral Rojestvensky then marshalled his fleet in order of battle. The ships continued on their course in two lines, column ahead. The main battle commenced at dusk, the Japanese maneuvering in a circle around the Russian fleet.

Rojestvensky's flagship, the Kniaz Suvaroff, was set on fire five times before being destroyed. The Nicholai I. turned turtle. The Orel's masts and stacks were shot away, and the Aurora lost her masts. Two battleships of the Borodino type listed badly.

A torpedo attack commenced before sunset and was repulsed, but it was renewed during the night and is believed to have been responsible for the sinking of the damaged ships. Other details of the Russky Slovo's dispatch are conflicting and unimportant.

Voelkersam Probably Dead.

TOKYO, May 31.—Admiral Rojestvensky, who is at Sasebo hospital, is wounded in the forehead, legs and back, but will recover. Vice Admiral Voelkersam is supposed to have perished.

The reported sinking of the cruiser Jemtchug has not been confirmed, as the name of the cruiser has been dropped from the list of destroyed vessels. It is purported the protected cruiser Aurora was sunk.

A telegram from Admiral Togo, dated yesterday, and delayed in transmission, says:

"The naval battle fought from the afternoon of May 27 to May 28 in the vicinity of Oku Island and extending to the vicinity of Orleung is called the naval battle of the sea of Japan."

Admiral Togo also reports that Vice Admiral Equtse was captured with Admiral Rojestvensky. The Russian prisoners, Admiral Togo says, will exceed 3,000.

Rojestvensky's Skull Fractured.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The state department has received the following from Tokyo, dated today:

"Rojestvensky's skull fractured, requiring operation; serious but not dangerous. Total Japanese losses to date, three torpedo boats sunk, three officers killed, about 200 men killed and disabled."

The following cablegram has been received by the state department from Minister Griscom, dated Tokyo, May 31:

"Rojestvensky seriously wounded; hospital Sasebo. Two Russian hospital ships captured, suspected taking part strategically; brought to Sasebo. Russian officers will be released on parole."

The Japanese legation today received the following report from Tokyo:

"It is officially announced that in the last naval battle the damages sustained by our fleet were very slight and none of our battleships, cruisers, destroyers and other ships was lost, except three torpedo boats.

"Under Imperial command, Admiral Togo was authorized to permit Nebogatoff to submit to the czar the reports on the last battle and a list of Russian killed, wounded and prisoners. The admiral was also authorized to release, on parole, the surrendered officers of Nicholai I., Orel, Apraxine and Senjavin.

"Rojestvensky was taken to Sasebo naval hospital. No other admiral was captured from the Biedovy, last report in this respect being due to clerical error."

Bravi at Vladivostok.

VLADIVOSTOK, May 31.—The torpedo boat destroyer Bravi arrived here today and brought four officers and 197 men of the crew of the battleship Orlabia.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 31.—Pitiful scenes continue at the admiralty, where the families of officers and sailors appear and ask for news of their missing relatives. The families of many of those who went on board ships reported to have been sunk, are having requiem masses celebrated for the repose of the souls of the dead.

The emperor has received, through Rear Admiral Jessen, the report of Capt. Andrieffski of the torpedo boat destroyer Grozny at Vladivostok, but it is understood to contain little more information than brought by Capt. Chagin of the cruiser Almaz.

THE EMPEROR SUMMONS ROYAL FAMILY COUNCIL

Discuss Peace, Also Whether to Yield to Popular Demand for Convocation of National Assembly.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, May 31.—The seriousness of the situation created by the complete destruction of the Russian fleet seems to be fully realized at Tsarkoe-Selo, where the emperor has assembled practically all the members of the imperial family to decide on the course to pursue. A series of conferences are proceeding which will determine not only the question of peace, but whether it is advisable to yield to the popular demand for the immediate convocation of a national assembly.

This afternoon the emperor summoned Admiral Alexieff and all the ministers to an extraordinary council. It is said all the ministers, with the exception of the ministers of war and marine, unanimously favor the immediate conclusion of peace. No trouble is anticipated in meeting the payment of an indemnity, as financiers who were not willing to lend money for a continuation of the war are ready to accommodate Russia if money is needed for the purpose of concluding peace.

In view of possible demonstrations three regiments, the Preobregensky, Ismailovsky and Moskovsky, which were at the summer camp at Krasnoye-Selo, 16 miles southwest of St. Petersburg, have been hurriedly brought back to St. Petersburg.

FRANCE ENTERTAINS STRONG HOPE OF PEACE

PARIS, May 31.—Governmental quarters here for the first time entertain a distinct hope of peace. This hope is not strong, but it is something more than mere deduction from the result of the recent naval battle. What it is based upon is not known outside of those intimately conversant with Russia's intentions, but it is significant that hope now prevails in high quarters that the peace efforts may not be futile.

Must Answer for the Riot.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 31.—(Special.)—The outcome of the fight in the ranks of the Memorial day parade yesterday, in which Capt. Harry Ulrich of Company H, Fifth regiment, O. N. G., is said to have taken part, will be charges preferred against him before Gov. Herrick, and an effort made to deprive him of his commission. Capt. Ulrich is alleged to have struck Capt. P. M. Hainan, a foreign service man, with his sword.

CZAR DETERMINES TO CONTINUE WAR

Decides on This Course After Councils of Imperial Family and Ministers.

CASSINI ECHOES HIS MASTER

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 1.—Whether peace or the continuance of the war will be the result of yesterday's all-important conference between the emperor and his ministers at Tsarkoe-Selo, hangs in a doubt, the ministers who returned to St. Petersburg late at night preserving a cautious reticence over the proceedings of the council, as far as the attitude of the emperor is concerned. Prince Obolensky, who had an audience yesterday with his majesty, found him resolutely determined on the prosecution of the war.

Various rumors as to the results of the council are current, all agreeing, however, that a continuance of the war was the first question taken up, whereupon the peace party offered a strong line of argument, which was supplemented, it is said, by a dispatch from Lieutenant Gen. Linevitch in which that commander expressed a fear as to the demoralizing effect of the naval disaster on the army, the news of which had already reached the troops from Vladivostok, and was rapidly spreading.

Though the situation here is tranquil, Gov.-Gen. Trepoff is continuing his precautionary measures. Two further Don Cossack regiments have arrived and the police reserves are held on duty. During the night small patrols were seen on the Nevsky Prospect and other streets. Alarmist rumors are afloat as to the disaffection among the marines and sailors quartered here, and the workmen are again muttering about a general strike.

WASHINGTON, May 31. While the president has discussed informally the subject of peace negotiations with members of his cabinet and with some representatives of foreign governments at the capital, and, in the near future, probably will take up the matter with others, it can be said authoritatively that no definite steps looking toward peace have yet been taken by this government. That such steps may be taken is regarded as quite likely, but whatever action may be taken will depend upon information not yet in hand.

That a concerted effort on the part of several important powers, including the United States, to bring about a cessation of hostilities in the far east may be made very soon is reasonably certain. The result of such an effort is quite another matter. It is regarded as too soon yet after the great naval battle, for Russia to determine upon a definite course of action. At least until the St. Petersburg government shall have indicated what its desires may be, the probabilities are regarded as favorable only to an informal discussion of peace.

Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador, was the guest of the president at luncheon today. The president and Sir Mortimer discussed fully the recent developments in the far east, as well as matters involving the relations of the United States and Great Britain. That they discussed seriously, though informally, the prospects of bringing about peace between Russia and Japan, there can be no doubt.

Will Carry No Message.

Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, expects to see the president some time tomorrow for a general talk, but denied tonight he would carry any message from his government, and spoke discouragingly of the prospects of peace.

"Had the battle in the Korean straits been fairly even," he said, "peace at this time might be looked for. But why should Russia seek peace now, if she cannot obtain reasonable terms? We have a large army in the field which is constantly being increased. Russia is not threatened with a Japanese invasion. Her resources have not been at all exhausted by the war. Without a navy she is naturally handicapped, but that only means it will take us longer to defeat the Japanese on land.

"The idea that Russia will be forced to seek peace at this time, or surrender to Japan, is ridiculous. With the resources at her command Russia can continue the war for years. I do not say this will be the final decision of the government, but my firm personal opinion is that in this moment Russia cannot think of suggesting peace to her adversary."

Says Russia Knows Terms.

In a conversation tonight Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, said Russia would not have to communicate with Tokyo direct to find out the general conditions upon which Japan would open peace negotiations, adding:

"Unless Russia is prepared to accede forthwith to these terms, she had better fight on. Japan has never intimated to any power the definite terms on which she would conclude peace, but Russia knows what Japan is fighting for, and if she is ready to discuss peace she can find out from one of several neutral powers Japan's sine quo non."

It is understood that except in a general way, Japan's peace terms are not known to the Washington government, but it is known positively an immense indemnity will be demanded from Russia if the war closes at this stage.

JAPAN WILL NOT PURSUE A POLICY OF EXPANSION

Desires No Better Neighbor in the Philippines Than the United States, Says Minister Kato.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

BERLIN, May 31.—The Brussels correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung, in an interview with Mr. Kato, the Japanese minister to Belgium, called his attention to American dispatches alleging that there was concern in the United States lest Japan would undertake the seizure of the Philippine islands. The minister replied:

"I share the vew of my government and of every Japanese," said Minister Kato. "In asserting that we desire no better in the Philippines than the United States. Moreover, our trade has received the greatest advantage from the American occupation of the Philippines. We esteem the American people highly for their liberalism and activity, and have always maintained the best relations with them.

"Japan will never pursue a policy of expansion, and they are fantastic politicians who attribute to us such ends. We began the war with Russia in self-defense. What we need is a permanent peace, which will give us the possibility of developing within our own borders."

Mr. Kato expressed his personal belief that Russia will continue the war, and that the next stage of Japan's operations will be at Vladivostok. Japanese generals and admirals, he added, will have more to say in fixing peace conditions than will the diplomatists.

RUSSIANS IMPRISON TWO AMERICAN HUNTERS

VICTORIA, B. C., May 31.—A letter has been received here from Habarovsk telling of the imprisonment of a Victoria sealer and two American hunters, in common with a score of Japanese, who were captured by Russians on the Japanese schooner Koyoichi in Okhotsk sea in August last. They were each sentenced to one year and four months' imprisonment for hunting seals, though captured on the high sea. The sentences start February 8 and will be served at Habarovsk.

CRUISER GROMOBOI WAS NOT SUNK

ST. PETERSBURG, May 31.—The admiralty denies the report that the cruiser Gromoboi of the Vladivostok squadron had been sunk with nearly 800 men on board. A message was received from Capt. Bronnikoff, her commander, last night, which it was believed was sent by wireless telegraphy to Vladivostok. Vice Admiral Skrydloff, who was reported to be on board the Gromoboi, is in St. Petersburg.

FRICK'S REPORT IS NOT ADOPTED

Equitable Directors Continue Discussion of Committee's Recommendations.

SOME RADICAL MEASURES

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 31.—The board of directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society met today to receive the report of the committee headed by Henry C. Frick of Pittsburgh. The number of directors present was unusually large and included the following: J. W. Alexander, James H. Hyde, Louis Fitzgerald, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Chauncey M. Depew, E. H. Harriman, Jacob H. Schiff, H. C. Deming, H. P. Winthrop, Cornelius N. Bliss, D. O. Mills, George H. Squire, George J. Gould, Oage E. Tarbell, George T. Wilson, Alvin W. Krech, William Alexander, William H. McIntyre, Henry C. Frick, C. Ledyard Blair, J. F. De Navarro, Brayton Ives, Bradish Johnson, David H. Moffatt, M. E. Ingalls, Thomas D. Jordan, Charles Stewart Smith, Valentine P. Snyder, John J. McCook, James B. Forgan, J. J. Hill, C. B. Alexander, M. Hartley Lodge, Marvin Hughitt and H. C. Haarstick.

The report was very long, the reading occupying nearly two hours. When it was concluded the directors adjourned for an hour, after which the discussion of the report was taken up. This conference continued for nearly two hours, when an adjournment was taken until 11 a. m. on Friday. The report was not adopted, the conference being devoted to a preliminary discussion of its most important recommendations, some of which, it was ascertained, were of a very radical character. When the adjournment was taken Mr. Frick said he was unable to say when the report would be made public. All the directors at the meeting were pledged to maintain absolute secrecy regarding it.

VALLEY BRANCHES AGAIN ARE BEING CONSIDERED

Ex-Judge N. B. Billingsley, President of Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western, Will See Delano Today.

Former Judge N. B. Billingsley of Lisbon, O., president of the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western Railroad Company, was in the city last night. Mr. Billingsley will have a conference today with President F. A. Delano and First Vice President B. A. Worthington of the Wabash lines east of Toledo, in regard to the extensions of the road of which he is president.

It will be recalled that over three years ago a syndicate, including many members of the Pittsburgh-Toledo syndicate which built the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal, bought the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western and the Salem railroads and consolidated them into one property, with the ultimate purpose of making them the New Castle and Youngstown lines of the Wabash.

So far the attention of the Gould interests has been taken up with the line into Pittsburgh, but with this completed, it is expected they will begin to provide the roads which will tap the tonnage that goes into and comes from the Mahoning and Shenango valleys. Judge Billingsley would not discuss the plans last evening, saying that he preferred to remain silent on the subject at present.

BOY FINDS A DEATH DEALER.

Infernal Machine for a Christian Science Sanitarium Found in Railway Waiting Room.

AKRON, O., May 31.—(Special.)—A little son of a farmer north of the city found an infernal machine hidden inside a waiting room of the Akron-Cuyahoga Falls electric line while hunting for a stray kitten this morning. The machine was a cigar box, with a revolver with a string to the trigger, and packed with dynamite. It was not set. Three pounds of dynamite were taken out of the box. The boy attempted to open it, and failing called his father, who noticed the police. It is believed that the machine may have been intended for a Christian Science sanitarium near the waiting room.

Czar's Consul in Chicago Dresses in Black and His Associates Follow His Example.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Baron Albert A. Schlippenbach, the Russian consul to Chicago, today appeared in local business circles dressed in a suit of black and wearing dark neckwear. In this manner he is showing his grief for the Russian disaster in the far east.

"I have lost many dear friends in the battle," he said. "I fear that many related to me by ties of blood have also perished." In conformity with continental mourning customs, the baron has also laid aside all jewelry. Other members of the Russian consulate are following his example.

The price fixed by the viewers is $45 each for shares, the par value of which is $25. There are 1,191 shares, the par value of the stock being $29,775. The bridge was built 20 years ago and cost $30,000.

Colored Men Battle for Girl.

While returning home from the Barnum & Bailey circus at Allegheny last night, Fred Johnson and Joseph Armstrong, both colored, of Pittsburgh, got into a fight over a girl, during which Armstrong was cut about the head and neck by Johnson with a razor. The fight took place on Federal street at 11 o'clock. After the cutting Johnson escaped across the Sixth street bridge, and a little later Armstrong, who was bleeding profusely, darted across, falling several times from loss of blood. He reached the Wabash station and was taken to the Homeopathic hospital, where it was found his wounds were not serious.

Trains Collide in Tunnel.

A wreck occurred in the Cork Run tunnel of the Panhandle railroad near the Sheraden yards last evening, when the Wheeling express ran into the rear end of a freight train which had stopped in the tunnel. The freight caboose was demolished, four freight cars derailed and damaged, and the passenger engine put out of commission. Traffic on the line was tied up until another engine was secured.

TORPEDO BOATS HAVE REDEEMED THEMSELVES

This Is President Roosevelt's Opinion After Studying Naval Battle in Far East.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 31.—It is the belief of high naval authorities of the government, both administrative and legislative, that when the full details of the battle of Tsu straits are known it will upset some calculations in regard to naval construction.

President Roosevelt is inclined to believe torpedo boats have redeemed themselves. Up to this time he has not been a believer in the efficacy of this type in naval warfare except for night attacks under vastly favorable conditions. He is on record in public documents, as assistant secretary of the navy, as pronouncing absurd the idea of curtailing battleship construction in favor of torpedo craft. It is practically certain that hereforth more attention will be given to torpedo tactics in the American navy and that congress will be asked to authorize more torpedo boats and destroyers.

Two points which the president has emphasized in the last two days to his callers are that the battle has shown the value of constant target practice, and the necessity of maintaining at all times in the highest state of efficiency and strength the units of the navy.

Secretary Morton spent some time with the president today discussing the great naval battle. Both recognize it is a question of the greatest importance for the United States to learn the exact facts as to the immense discrepancy in the losses, and Secretary Morton proposes to set on foot an investigation to secure the facts.

PRESERVING MONUMENT.

Old Soldiers and Director McIlvaine Agree Upon Proposition.

George I. Rudolph, a member of the Grand Army association committee appointed to look after the soldiers' monument, which may be injured under the proposal to give Monument hill back to the Western Theological seminary, called on Director McIlvaine of the Allegheny department of public works yesterday. The veterans are uneasy about the disposition of the monument and the big flagstaff in the event of the grading of the hill.

Director McIlvaine told Mr. Rudolph he was opposed to the city surrendering the perpetual lease it now holds on the hill and instead wanted the hill graded, roads built and the Soldiers' memorial hall placed on it.

The ordinance will come up before the Allegheny finance committee next Thursday night. The Grand Army association will have its representatives present and the trustees of the seminary will be there with their attorney.

Ellerich, W. B. Langsit and Edward E. Mayer.

MR. BONAPARTE HESITATED.

Says He Accepted Cabinet Appointment Reluctantly Because He Did Not Care to Enter Public Life.

BALTIMORE, May 31.—Charles J. Bonaparte was presiding over a meeting of the executive committee of the Reform league, of which he is chairman, when the dispatch announcing his appointment to succeed Paul Morton, was shown him tonight. In relation thereto he said:

"The president tendered me the position about 10 days ago. After due reflection I decided it was my duty to accept. I had no reason to think previously that he had my name under consideration for this office. It is needless for me to say that I appreciated very highly the great and unexpected compliment implied in his offer. Nevertheless I did not accept without much hesitation, for I have always been very reluctant to enter public life. There is nothing more to be said, except that I will try to do my duty and hope to make a creditable record."

The tests of this gear made on Baltimore & Ohio cars at East Pittsburgh during the visit here of the International Railway congress, in which it was shown to be impossible to wreck a train by the pulling in two of the line, or the heads on account of weight of the load, are believed to have been accepted as demonstrating the value of the device.

FIGHT IS ON FOR MANY MILLIONS

Contest for Estate of William Weightman, State's Wealthiest Merchant, Opens.

$60,000,000 ARE NOW AT STAKE

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—The opening gun in the Weightman will contest, which opens a legal battle with stakes aggregating $60,000,000, was fired today when Charles E. D'Invilliers, the newly appointed guardian for Martha Rogers Weightman, granddaughter of William Weightman, filed an appeal to the orphans' court in this city praying that body to set aside the action of the register of wills in admitting the Weightman will to probate.

This action was expected in view of developments last Saturday, when Mr. D'Invilliers was made his niece's guardian. He is a brother of Mrs. James Wister, who brought the suit last March against Mrs. Annie M. Weightman Walker, sole legatee under the will of her father, who at the time of his death, in August, 1901, was regarded as Pennsylvania's wealthiest merchant.

Immediately upon filing this appeal Mr. D'Invilliers executed a bond of $2,500, which was the security demanded in the case. The opening wedge having been entered, those connected with the case say the affidavit and other papers bearing on the contest will be filed with the courts within a short time, as it is the desire of the plaintiff to bring Mrs. Walker into court as soon as possible.

Mrs. James Wister is not making the fight solely for her own daughter, Martha Weightman, whose father was William Weightman, Jr., but should the suit be successful, five other grandchildren, besides the offspring of two grandchildren deceased, will share in the immense fortune, which was left solely to Mrs. Anne M. Weightman Walker.

The appointment of Mr. D'Invilliers on Saturday as Miss Weightman's guardian really presaged yesterday's action, as it was known that Mrs. Jones Wister did not desire to remain as the plaintiff, being her daughter's legal guardian, when the will of necessity be called upon to play the part of the most important witness. Mrs. Wister explains the heroic in the appeals which she filed to have her brother made her daughter's guardian, "I believe," her appeal says, "that by having another guardian appointed, who will be the plaintiff, the case will be materially strengthened."

V. Gilpin Robinson, Alexander Simpson, Jr., and Samuel Dickson are Mr. D'Invilliers' counsel, while Attorney General Carson was retained by Mrs. Walker when the suit first became known. They are now getting together the tangled evidence, which will be submitted in the suit, and it is said that one of the most important points to be brought before the court is the fact, as declared by many of Mrs. Wister's friends, that the wealthy drug merchant proposed marriage to her when his son, William Weightman, Jr., died. It is believed that his resentment at her marriage to Jonas Wister led him to leave his wealth to Mrs. Walker.

MANY HEAR DR. W. J. DAWSON.

Evangelist Addresses Two Large Meetings and Says Religion Is Being Made "Too Easy."

A good-sized audience gathered in the Second Presbyterian church, Eighth street, last night, to listen to the Rev. Dr. William J. Dawson of London, England. Dr. Dawson said there were many professing to be Christians who had never surrendered themselves wholly to Christ, and this was the principal reason for their lack of power in Christian service.

He scored some of the ministers of today for not preaching the simple gospel of Jesus Christ. "I wonder," said the speaker, "if some of us ministers would not tremble in our pulpits were Christ to come and ask me: 'Whose gospel is this you are preaching?' Would some of us not be compelled to say: 'It is mine—not mine.' We make religion too easy.

About 200 ministers of various denominations were present at the meeting, and a formal invitation was extended to Dr. Dawson to return to Pittsburgh in November.

"I Made by Mood It's Good."

TO SUCCEED MORTON

and the clerks who served under him, and he has shown that when President Roosevelt picked him for his administrative ability, no mistake was made.

The president today also authorized the statement that no other changes in the personnel of the cabinet was likely to take place in the near future. Secretary Shaw already has indicated his intention of retiring from the cabinet probably next February. Rumors of the retirement of Attorney General Moody have been published, but it is understood to be his intention now to continue in the cabinet for a year and a half and perhaps longer.

Appointment a Surprise.

To all except President Roosevelt's closest advisers the announcement of the selection of Mr. Bonaparte as the head of the navy came as a distinct surprise, although it had been determined on by the president for some time in anticipation of Mr. Morton's retirement. In all the gossip Mr. Bonaparte has not been suggested as Mr. Morton's possible successor. So great is Mr. Roosevelt's confidence in Mr. Bonaparte that on many matters of national concern he has sought his advice and counsel. To determine accurately the legal phases of the postal frauds, the president designated Mr. Bonaparte and Holmes Conrad to investigate the subject and on their report he took decisive action without hesitation. Eminent as a lawyer and publicist and a consistent advocate of civil service reform, Mr. Bonaparte has not been supposed to have more than a academic interest in the navy. In the upbuilding of the navy, however, he is known to be in perfect accord with the president and doubtless will carry into effect the views of Mr. Roosevelt in the strengthening of the naval establishment.

Grand Nephew of Napoleon.

Mr. Bonaparte is a grand nephew of the famous Napoleon, being a grandson of Jerome Bonaparte, a brother of Napoleon, who, while staying in the United States, married Miss Eliza Patterson, one of the most famous beauties of Baltimore. At one time it was maintained by many students of genealogy that Charles Bonaparte was the real Napoleon IV., but Mr. Bonaparte has never made any effort to assert his claim to recognition by the French royalists.

Throughout his whole career Mr. Bonaparte has been conspicuous for the outspoken way in which he has made known his disapproval of any act of either of the great political parties. During the war in the Philippines he was one of the most ardent opponents of the government's policy, but when the war was ended he firmly declined the proffered office of vice president of the Anti-Imperialist league, because he believed it to be the duty of every citizen, after the Philippines had been acquired, to aid in putting down the insurrection there. Another instance of his independence was given when he stated that in spite of his disapproval of many of the acts of the McKinley administration he would vote the Republican ticket because he believed the triumph of Mr. Bryan would be a menace to American institutions.

Renown as an Orator.

Mr. Bonaparte is one of the few to whom have been awarded the Laetare medal which the University of Notre Dame confers, that can be bestowed by Notre Dame university and which is awarded only to those who have rendered conspicuous services to either the church, humanity or art.

As an orator Mr. Bonaparte has won especial renown and his manner of speaking in or out of court is unique. He never wears a smile all the time, even when he is saying the most uncomplimentary things of the client on hand, and his voice, though pitched in a somewhat high key, is effective on account of the fact that there is no flourish on the sentences were lines that does not time the listener. Mr. Bonaparte's sentences, although as long as those of the late Senator Evarts, do not destroy or lessen the force of the speaker's composition, so well are they rounded out and symmetrized.

One of the features of Mr. Bonaparte's residence in Baltimore is a room containing one of the finest collections of Napoleonic relics in either this country or Europe, some of them being bequeathed to his father and others collected by Mr. Bonaparte during his private career.

GUMBERT HAS GOOD PROSPECTS

Judges May Select Him to Fill the Vacancy on the Board of Commissioners.

TALK OF CHARLES B. PRICE

The nine common pleas court judges will probably on Saturday appoint a man to fill the vacancy caused by the death of County Commissioner J. Carson Mercer. There are a number of candidates for the position. Under a provision of the constitution, the appointee must have voted for Mr. Mercer.

The active candidates are A. C. Gumbert, John W. Moreland, ex-Commissioner W. W. Murray, Commissioners' Clerk H. T. Rowley and P. W. Seibert. Mention is also made of Charles B. Price, former general superintendent of the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company; W. J. Zahniser, a former member of select council from the Seventeenth ward, and Daniel Ashworth. Mr. Price and Mr. Ashworth live in Oakmont.

Mr. Gumbert is a candidate for the Republican nomination for commissioner and naturally would like to have the appointment, as it would assist him in winning out at the primaries. The same is true of Mr. Moreland. Mr. Gumbert has the active support of many of the leading workers in the Republican organization. If the judges accept the recommendation of the organization, Mr. Gumbert will no doubt receive the appointment. He also has the support of some of the men who have been prominent in the Orphans party. This is also true of Mr. Zahniser. Mr. Gumbert has been connected with the prothonotary's office for a number of years. He lives in the Twenty-first ward.

Charles B. Price Mentioned.

The judges may decide to select a Republican who has not been closely connected with the organization but has been prominent in business circles. In the event of such a decision, the appointment may be tendered to Mr. Price. A number of business men have suggested that he would make an excellent commissioner. While he is not making a campaign for the appointment, it is probable that he would accept. Mr. Price is a stalwart Republican and voted for Mr. Mercer.

Mr. Moreland announces that although he was an ardent Citizens supporter in 1902 he voted for Mr. Mercer. There were a number of Citizens in that campaign who gave assistance to Mr. Mercer. Mr. Rowley, the present chief clerk of the commissioners' office, comes under this head. Mr. Moreland saw the error of his way soon after the 1902 campaign and returned to the Republican party. He has been an active organization man since. Messrs. Moreland and Rowley are veterans of the civil war, and are receiving support from the old soldiers. Mr. Rowley has been mentioned as the colleague of Commissioner James A. Clark on the fusion ticket, but has never announced that he would accept the Citizens' nomination.

Murray a Candidate.

Mr. Murray was defeated for re-election in 1902, having been on the Republican ticket with Mr. Mercer. He had served as a commissioner and was seeking a re-election. Mr. Seibert was chief clerk of the commissioners' office for a long time, but for several years has been at the head of the county deed registry bureau.

Commissioner Clark says the Democrats will not make an effort to have one of their members appointed. He claims many of them are eligible, as Mr. Mercer received a good deal of support from the Democracy.

The Citizens county committee will meet at the Third avenue headquarters this afternoon to determine the plan to be followed in the nomination of a ticket. It has been the custom to leave the question to a committee of five. This year there has been some talk about holding primaries. The change is wanted by some of the young men of the patrol, but is not in favor with the bosses of the party. Secretary James W. Clark said yesterday that he did not expect any change in the method of nominating. As the Citizens are experiencing considerable trouble in making a ticket, they want the work confined to as few people as possible. The meeting today will probably decide in favor of the selection of a new county committee. The present one was chosen in the spring of 1903.

Rule-Makers to Meet.

The joint committee that will have charge of the revision of the Republican rules in city, borough and township will hold its first meeting at the county headquarters tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Chairman T. J. Ford has called the meeting. He expects the rule-makers to organize and begin their work.

The primaries for the election of city and county Republican committeemen will be held throughout the county Saturday evening. With one or two exceptions there will be no fights for places in the organizations. Chairman Ford will call the new county committee together for organization on either June 17 or 24. He will be re-elected, as will all of the executive officers. Chairman Ford will have a perfect organization ready to take charge of the fall campaign, which will open immediately following the primaries of September 16.

Chairman Peter Langsdorf of the McKeesport Republican committee called a meeting of the committeemen last night and ratified his selection of conferees in the joint rule conference. He has named himself, Col. W. E. Thompson, T. B. Verner and Representative James F. Woodward.

Every arrangement that could be made beforehand has been completed in the plans for unveiling the monument to Gen. Alexander Hays at the battlefield of the Wilderness next Saturday. COMMISSION APPOINTED TO CODIFY DIVORCE LAWS

HARRISBURG, May 31.—(Special.)—Pennypacker today appointed William B. Hinkle and Walter George Smith, Philadelphia, and C. Larue Munson of Williamsport a commission to examine and codify the divorce laws of Pennsylvania and cooperate with similar commissions of other states for the enactment of uniform divorce law. This commission was created by the recent legislature which also appropriated $10,000 for its expenses.

PURSUES ENEMY, THOUGH STABBED

IS FOUND LATER IN HOSPITAL

With blood streaming from a gaping wound across the back of his neck, Litch Armstrong, a negro, aged about 20, pursued his assailant, also a negro, for nearly two miles last night before, through weakness, he was forced to give up the chase. Armstrong, with two negro youths named Johnson and Frazier, were in Allegheny drinking. About 10:30 they decided to come to Pittsburgh. Near the north end of Sixth street bridge Armstrong and Johnson had a quarrel.

The men patched up their differences and started to cross the bridge, according to Frazier, who promised to buy them a drink on the Pittsburgh side. As soon as the men got out of sight of the toll house, it is alleged, Armstrong struck Johnson with his fist and knocked him in front of a traction car. The motorman saw Johnson fall and stopped the car before it reached him.

After the car proceeded across the bridge Armstrong again struck at Johnson and the latter pulled a razor and cut Armstrong on the neck, below the right ear, drawing his razor clear around to the left ear. Johnson then started to run across the bridge toward Pittsburgh. Both men dropped their hats in the fight and Frazier picked them up and gave them to a Pittsburgh policeman.

Armstrong started after Johnson as soon as he had recovered from the blow. He pursued him across the bridge, down Duquesne way to Barker way, up which he ran to Penn avenue, then through Cecil alley to Liberty avenue, from which point he took the back streets, losing track of Johnson. An officer followed the trail which was clearly marked by blood the entire distance. At 11:30 Armstrong was found on the operating table in the Homeopathic hospital, where he went unassisted after he had lost trace of Johnson.

When Armstrong entered the hospital he was barely able to walk, being weakened through loss of blood. The physician said if the razor had struck Armstrong a quarter of an inch lower he would have died instantly.

HUMANE SOCIETY MEETS AND ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Encouraging Reports Are Read and Addresses Delivered by Postmaster Francies and John Marron.

The 31st annual meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Humane society was held yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church. Vice President S. L. Fleishman presided and opened the meeting with a short address in which he called attention to the splendid work of the organization during the past year and the necessity for larger revenue to enlarge upon the work.

President Joseph G. Walter read his annual report and was followed by Postmaster John Francies of Allegheny, who declared that Gov. Pennypacker had the highest regard for the society and believed that the governor would have signed a $10,000 appropriation bill this year as readily as he signed the one calling for $2,500.

Attorney John Marron delivered an address in which he urged the society to make organized effort to have the humane laws enforced. "It is useless to depend upon public officials to enforce laws they do not want to enforce," he added. "We are passing through a crisis of that kind in this county just now. I have learned only too well that some public officials will serve only so far as they fear you." William C. Lilley, a trustee of the First Presbyterian church, spoke on the noble purposes of the society, after which the annual election of officers was held with the following result:

President, Joseph G. Walter, vice presidents, William G. Johnston, William R. Thompson, Mrs. S. S. Currier, J. Walter Hay, Mrs. Samuel McKee, Mrs. R. Lee Mason, Mrs. William Wallace, Col. A. F. Burchfield, G. L. Fleishman, Mrs. Peter Young, Edward E. Duff, Mrs. Henry Asthalter; secretary, Miss Frances R. Bell; treasurer, William P. Thompson; board of managers, Mrs. E. M. Butz, Mrs. Harvey Henderson, Mrs. H. F. Lynch, Mrs. A. M. A. Ralph, H. Lee Mason, Jr., James L. Marshall, William D. Thompson, George O. Morgan, Mrs. F. F. Nicola, William H. Black, G. W. Hammar, Mrs. J. A. Lippincott, William C. Lilley, Mrs. Richard Hardy, Edward G. Lang.

The report of Superintendent James S. Bell showed the following statistics: Cruelty to aged persons, 68; cruelty to children, 605; children abused and incorrigible, 74; miserable surroundings, 94; cases where advice or warning remedied abuse, 443; children returned to parents, 508; given to relatives or private families, 281; cases of cruelty to animals, 1,266; persons convicted, 384; discharged on payment of fines, 151; persons held for court or sent to prison, 8; number of animals involved, 18,053.

The treasurer's report showed the receipts for the year ended April 20 and including ambulance fund balance to have been $10,971.67, and the expenditures $9,178.73, leaving a balance, including ambulance fund, for 1905, of $1,792.94.

STATE TREASURY BALANCE IS NEARLY TEN MILLION

HARRISBURG, May 31.—(Special.)—State Treasurer Mathues' May statement shows a balance of $9,965,502.88 in the general fund of the treasury at the close of today's business. The school appropriation for 1905 falls due tomorrow, but following the practice of the department Mr. Mathues will not begin the distribution until September. School districts in need of funds, however, will receive their share as soon as they make application.

Old Pike Is Now Free.

UNIONTOWN, PA., May 31.—(Special.)—The collection of toll, which for 78 years has been the rule along the 74 miles of the old national pike in Fayette and Washington counties, ceased this evening. The Campsey law, making the pike free to public travel, goes into effect June 1, 1905. That portion of the road in Somerset county has been free from toll since 1888. The abolishment of the Uniontown tollgate marks the retirement of William J. Gosnell, tollgate keeper, who was probably the oldest pike man still in the service, having served for 60 years.

Wilson Is Brought Back.

Detective Cecil Rice returned last evening from New York with Harry Wilson, alias Watson, alias "Sneezy Harry" and Greniger, in custody. The arrest was made in New York several days ago, and the prisoner was brought back on a bail piece, being wanted here for trial on the charge of robbing the jewelry store of August Loeh, in Allegheny, last October. Wilson was under $1,000 bail, furnished by Conrad Dippie of Knoxville, but jumped his bail.

Century of Champaign County.

MARION, O., May 31.—(Special.)—Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, United States Senator Dick, Gov. Herrick and staff and other notables, have accepted invitations to be present at the ceremonies marking the close of 100 years of history of Champaign county. The celebration will be held July 4, 5 and 6. The first day will be known as "Nation's Day," when Vice President Fairbanks will speak at the fair grounds.

Plumbers to Meet in Atlanta.

A delegation of 25 master plumbers will leave today for Atlanta to attend the annual convention of the International Association of Master Plumbers and Steamfitters. The Pittsburgh delegation will be headed by S. S. White, president of the Pennsylvania State Association of Master Plumbers. The delegates expect to capture some of the international offices.

Water Taxes Being Collected.

The city treasurer will begin today to collect the water taxes for 1905. The books containing the assessments were turned over to the treasurer yesterday. The total assessments are $1,124,511.62, or an increase of only $71,609.42 over last year. The collections of water taxes will continue during the entire month of June.

in which the public has the opportunity of buying new goods that were intended for Chicago retail stores was attended by many thousands yesterday. Ugly as the day was, we are somewhat indebted to the weather man, for had the sun been given a fair opportunity there would have been such an assemblage here that many hundreds would have had to go away without being served. As it was, we had all that we could take care of satisfactorily. Every salesperson was keyed to the highest pitch, and if ever there was a time when everyone connected with the store tried to do his or her best that time was yesterday.

In a cursory way we can only refer briefly to the many underpriced values that will be ready today, and we wish it to be clearly understood

That This Sale Will Continue Throughout the Week

We shall keep you as well posted as the extraordinary busy days will permit us, and if you will only take what we give you in the way of news, morning and evening, as pointing to many other like values, you will be well repaid for your attendance. For today we ask that you note particularly the first two sections of this bulletin which are given side by side.

Plenty of White Ostrich Plumes at $3.00 and $4.00 Each.

The $3.00 plumes are worth $4.50 and $5.00. They are 16 inches long.

The $4.00 plumes are worth $5.50 and $6.50. They are 18 inches long.

The point about a white plume is that it can be attached to most any hat and will be as becoming as anything that could be added to the hat. These plumes are a great lot that we used our best endeavors to get from New York, and they were on sale Monday and yesterday. And if you are at all interested we would advise seeing them today, as they are going out very fast, and after this lot is gone it will be impossible to get any more to sell at the same price.

The plumes are on sale in the special Millinery Section, first floor, West, as well as in the Millinery Department of third floor, and along with them we offer trimmed and untrimmed millinery as follows:

All untrimmed French Chip Hats, any shape, heretofore selling for $2.00 and up to $4.00, today..... $1.35

Any untrimmed Milan Hat, any shape, heretofore selling for $3.00 and up to $5.00, will be sold today for..... $2.00

Ingrain Art Squares, $3.25.

They Are in the Generous Size of 12 Feet by 9 Feet, and the Regular Price Is $5.25.

If one were to attempt to buy the trashiest ingrain, that is, enough to make one of these squares, the trashy stuff would cost him more than $4.00. The ingrain in these art squares is a good ingrain, and the colors are just those pretty colors that everybody likes and the designs are beautiful.

One of these art squares in a room will brighten it up wonderfully, and the astonishing part of it is that the square will only cost you $3.25. It doesn't require any tacking down—on the contrary, it will look a good deal better with the floor varnished and the uncovered part serving as border.

And for people who desire an extra good crumb cloth, $3.25 could not be invested in a better way.

These will be on sale in the Fifth Floor Rug and Carpet Department, and we will tell you that there are not too many of them, so that you may come early in the morning.

The attacks upon Mr. Rockefeller have brought to his defense a sturdy champion in the Rev. Dr. MacArthur, a leading Baptist clergyman of New York. Dr. MacArthur has been looking into transactions which have been denounced and finds them to be in accordance with the highest standards of commercial morality. Something specific as to what such standards are in these times would improve judgment upon the merits of Dr. MacArthur's defense.

Gilbert's advice in the opera of "Pinafore," to "stick close to your desk and never go to sea, and you may be the ruler of the Queen's naves" appears to be as applicable in this country as in England, for the secretary of the navy may be anybody except a man of special maratime knowledge. The railroad manager Morton is to be succeeded by the Baltimore lawyer, Charles Jerome Bonaparte, famous as an aggressive reformer with powers of sarcasm which he keeps in sharp edge by frequent trial. Heretofore his role has been that of critic, but in assuming administrative tasks he brings to his duties great energy of character.

Rhode Island has abolished her appellate division of the supreme court which had met for many years in a historic building in Newport county. In his valedictory Judge Blodgett of the court said the building had existed for over 150 years, from its balcony the accession of kings had been announced, and within its walls Rhode Islanders first heard the Declaration of independence read. As Newport has ceased to be state capital in alteration with Providence, its political distinction is now quite departed, and it is a question whether its social prominence is an equivalent.

For years Harvard has suffered from the vandalism of a secret society known as the Med Fac, whose membership was not known. The undergraduates belonging to it were required to do acts which were often criminal and they were protected by their associates. The latest outrage consisted of breaking into a building and stealing the tablet which dedicated the structure to the memory of the late Philip Brooks. Now the dean of the faculty has taken hold of the matter and secured the signatures of all the members to an agreement to suppress the society forever. If they succeed a disgraceful blot upon Harvard's reputation will be removed.

Would-be reformers are many and theoretical reformers abound, but the practical man in reform work is rare. New York city had such a man in F. Norton Goddard, who died the other day. He inherited wealth and was given a liberal education at Harvard, but he declined a life of luxury, preferring quarters in an East Side tenement where he might be near the people. There he organized a civic club, which has since grown to large proportions. He was president of the Anti-Policy society, which attacked the pool rooms that were robbing the poor. Then he reached for higher game and sent Al Adams to prison. Simplicity as well as courage and honesty were his leading traits of character.

The supreme court decision which enabled South Dakota to enforce collection of some bonds which had been repudiated by North Carolina, created uneasiness in the south lest it might be the beginning of a process for holding southern states to account for obligations which they had settled by repudiating them. It looks that way, for New Hampshire has now taken similar action, bringing suit against South Carolina on $30,000 of bonds forming part of a bequest to the state agricultural college at Durham, N. H. While states cannot be sued in the federal courts by individuals, they can be sued by other states, and since the process has been found to be effective gifts to states of repudiated bonds may become such a popular phase of munificence as to create an embarrassing situation for the south.

Grant Grand Army post of Brooklyn had 40 members of the New York camp of Confederate Veterans as guests Tuesday when they conducted services at the Grant monument. The attempt to have the blue and gray unite in tributes to the hero of Appomattox resulted in so much feeling that Senator Blackburn declined to deliver the address, and there were refusals by union veterans to march. The evidence of feeling was not so great as when the post tried the same experiment 10 years ago, but it would be far better to avoid such displays of reconciliation than to stir up trouble by them.

The Pressure for Peace.

The situation is so hopeless for Russia that even the spread of revolt among the troops reported by Gen. Linevitch could hardly make it worse. The army in Manchuria is demoralized by continual defeat and weakened by enormous losses of men and supplies which the government is now unable to meet by adequate reinforcements. The only navy now left to Russia is the Black sea fleet, mostly old vessels not fit for ocean service and shut in by treaty obligations; also the fourth Baltic squadron which some time ago was ordered to be ready for service by June 14. It has only one vessel of any fighting value, the Slava. The others are old vessels, although including one battleship. It would be sheer madness to send this remnant to meet the fate which Rojestvensky's large and well-appointed fleet could not avert. Moreover, the departure of this squadron would leave the Baltic under complete naval control of Germany, and as the Polish frontier has been stripped of troops and its magazines have been depleted, Russia is practically at the mercy of Germany by sea and land.

It is this immense aggrandizement of German military power which alarms all Europe and creates the almost feverish diplomatic pressure upon Russia to end the war and preserve her position in the concert of Europe. Seizure of opportunity has been the principle of conduct which since 1740 has raised Prussia from the position of a third-rate power with barely 3,000,000 inhabitants to be head of the German empire with 60,000,000 inhabitants. It is not to be supposed that the able ruler of Germany at the present day will abandon that principle now. Everywhere upon the political horizon perils loom up in case the czar is bent upon squandering the resources of Russia in a hopeless eastern war to the effacement of her European influence. Holland, which holds the mouth of the great German waterway, the Rhine; France, which is confronted by the kaiser's antagonism in Morocco; both feel keenly the menace of the situation. The Macedonian question, which has been in the joint custody of Russia and Austria, may again become uncontrollable and embroil Turkey and the Balkan states. In fine, the elimination of Russia opens a boundless prospect of disturbance.

The czar is probably influenced by the tradition of stubborn determination which eventually brought Bonaparte to ruin despite an unbroken succession of victories, but the conditions are altogether different. Europe was then prostrate and Russia had no other interests apart from that struggle. Now continuance of the war involves the sacrifice of her position as a European power. If the czar holds out against the pressure in favor of peace his folly will be even greater than when he brought on the war by an infatuated policy.

The Oregon Exposition.

World's fairs have been frequent in recent years, those at Buffalo, St. Louis and Oregon all coming within a space of six years, while the Jamestown celebration will soon follow. The exposition which will open its gates at Portland, Ore., today succeeds the St. Louis show in a year and will in a similar way depend especially on the west for patronage. But the "out west" of today has moved from Chicago or St. Louis, and the Oregon display will afford many an eastern man the opportunity of learning how vast is the territory beyond the Rocky mountains. Its promoters, moreover, hope to provide distinction enough to offset any lack of interest that might result from the frequency of fairs.

The Philadelphia centennial celebrated the one hundredth birthday of our national life, but its home was well settled when the Declaration of Independence was issued. In less than 30 years the wilderness had been traversed to the Pacific coast, and the Oregon centennial is in observance of the visit of the pioneers long before settlements had been started. The occupation of the far west and its development in the 100 years are as great an achievement as the energy that has made the growth of the east so notable in the same time. While the Philadelphia centennial commemorated the birth of the republic, the Oregon fair celebrates the occupation of the farthest point in the territory that forms the body of states. The managers at Portland in completing the exhibit in season for the opening have given promise of executive ability that may realize their ambition to make its administration pay, and if they succeed in this they will accomplish an exploit unique in such undertakings.

Labor for the South.

One of the conclusions reached by the southern industrial congress at Washington last week was that immigration should be more diffused. Legislation will be sought for the establishment of a bureau of information at Ellis island in order to tell people who seek this shore that there are localities in this great country more desirable than New York or other Atlantic coast cities.

But the disposition of the new arrival to settle near his port of entry is not due so much to ignorance as to the lack of means to seek a home in the west or the south. If the average immigrant is not met by a company willing to help him gain a start elsewhere, he must settle down where he is and where he may have some friends, to earn a livelihood. Statistics about the prairies of the west or the neglected plantations of the south will be of little avail unless accompanied by some offer of transportation and provision for immediate needs. The average immigrant may be ignorant of the possibilities of the country, but it would be of little use to try to arouse his ambition to "move on" until he can afford to do so, for usually the voyage across the ocean has used up most of his savings. If the south desires immigration the way to get it is to interest the steamship lines and railroads in sending it there. Supplement these with societies for colonization and the work would assume practical shape. Such agencies would accomplish much more than any information bureau to exploit the opportunities of the south as a field for labor.

International Arbitration.

The meeting of the annual conference upon arbitration comes opportunely to remind us that while the noise of battle fills the world, yet the cause of peace is making progress. The facts given in the addresses present an encouraging record. Although the action of the senate defeated the arbitration treaties to which the United States was a party, 22 such treaties have been signed during the year, bringing the total number up to 30, and of these about one-half have been ratified and are now in force. Fourteen important cases of an international character are now in process of settlement by arbitration. It is a reassuring indication of the pacific disposition of the Japanese government that it willingly submitted to the arbitration of The Hague court an international question raised by the application of the Japanese house tax lands within the limits of the foreign concessions. The Japanese government had such a long and weary time of it in securing complete recognition of its national sovereignty that it might have been excused for being touchy about submitting to outside adjudication any point involving that sovereignty, and its action is a proof that in becoming a great power it is moderate in its pretensions.

Judge Gray, who presided over the conference, in his opening address reviewed the controversy between the president and the senate, and expressed his approval of the action of the president in withdrawing the treaties because of the amendment which would have defeated their purpose. The senate must bear the responsibility of causing the United States to be alone among the signatory powers of The Hague convention in not joining in the movement to support and strengthen that tribunal.

Economical Mr. Larkin.

Our city controller's reputation for economy is firmly fixed, and he need not have gone to the extreme of refusing to pay for the dress suits hired by two members of the detective force who graced some occasion where this costume was de regle. Our sleuths and bobbies are so seldom cognizant of the eternal fitness of things that any little tentative manifestations of such an instinct should be encouraged rather than repressed. It is to be feared that Mr. Larkin may carry his ideas so far as to refuse to pay for the green baby ribbon that decorates the maces of our finest on the 17th of every March, or to decline compensating the tonsorial artist who has been engaged to give their mustaches a martial upward curve a la Kaiser Wilhelm for the approaching Saengerfest. Now economy is a good thing, but a proper pride in our city's sartorial and esthetic fame forbids pushing economy to extremes.

It is reassuring to feel that our Vidocqs are probably equal to the occasion. They may not capture many crooks (which shows that the crooks fear them and keep out of their way when wanted), but they are competent to circumvent Mr. Larkin any day. The story is told of a drummer who went upon a trip and presented an expense account to his house on returning. "What's this?" said the senior partner; "you've charged up your poker losses to the firm." And he drew a blue pencil through that item. On returning from his next trip the drummer again presented an expense account. "I see," said the senior partner beamingly, "that you know better now than to charge your poker losses to the firm." "You don't see them," said the honest drummer, "but they're in it just the same." The Sherlock Holmeses of our force know that Mr. Larkin doesn't go to sleep, but they can close his eyes in some other way.

This country drinks every year something more than a million gallons more of coffee than it does of whisky. A majority of Americans evidently prefer exhilaration to inebriation.

When Rojestvensky finds time for recreation he will be very much diverted by reading the accounts of the numerous ways in which he was killed or captured.

The radiant month of June has come,
The month of brides and flowers,
Likewise the month of bathing suits,
And snakes and thundershowers.

If the Japanese naval victory shall bring peace and end the war Linevitch will be relieved of a job that he doesn't hanker for.

The resemblance between the pictures of Admiral Skrydloff and John Philip Sousa is so striking as to include even the medals.

If things continue on their present course Philadelphia may soon resume her rudely disturbed nap.

If May showers bring June flowers the floral crop ought to be an unusually large one this month.

King Alfonso of Spain is having the time of his life in Paris.

The June bride may now take the center of the stage.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS

By ERASMUS WILSON.

"Merry month of May" is more or less a misnomer at least it is to a great many.

It proved to be anything but a merry month to Russia, with its teeming millions of people, its vast army and navy, and its multitudes of nobility and aristocrats.

And yet, on the other hand, it has been a merry month in Japan. This little island is fairly smothered in flowers, its villages are like gardens and its palaces are veritable bowers of roses.

All the month is Mayday in Japan, but hereafter and forever it will be a sacred month. These people have great faith in the "power over all," and firmly believe that their leaders are instruments of this power through whom they, as a people, are to be protected and made strong and great.

Such faith as this in any people means a strong, progressive government. But when this belief becomes arrogant, and the people aggressive, the government begins to grow weak.

Victories are stimulating, but like other stimulants are apt to intoxicate, thus making the individual so that he is easily overcome by those possessed of their sober senses.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the saddest Mayday ever experienced in this region—the destruction of Johnstown by flood.

May 31, 1889, opened as a typical Mayday, and the people living in the Conemaugh valley were never happier or more hopeful.

Ere the day closed 3,000 lives had been wiped out and $10,000,000 worth of property destroyed. A dreadful visitation, surely, but not so great as to outmaster human effort to relieve.

Thousands of hands reached forth bearing aid and assistance. No service, or effort, or hardship was too great for the people. Indeed, hearty tenders of personal help had to be declined, with thanks, of course, because there was not work for so many willing hands.

Sixteen years have passed; the city of Johnstown has been rebuilt and is more beautiful and many times more wealthy than before its terrible baptism.

Great was the loss and greater still the sorrow and the suffering, but great has been the compensation, not merely in the increased riches of Conemaugh valley, but in the lessons taught and so deeply impressed on the minds and hearts of all the people.

It is most profitable for us, as a people, to recall these great events, for they were great lessons, since they taught us the duty we owe to each other. In no other way can the great fact that we are one people and that we are neighbors, one to every other, be so deeply and effectually impressed upon our minds and hearts.

All this we are taught through the pulpit and the press, but nothing short of a practical lesson now and again serves to make us feel that we are really brothers and sisters, all of one family.

Without an occasional great and appalling event we would acquire a sense of importance and self-sufficiency that would cause us to forget the power that made us, and that keeps us.

We are apt to think only of the more terrible phases of disastrous events, forgetting or neglecting to take into account the compensation that is sure to follow.

It seems to be a rule in nature that what is victory for one is defeat for another; what is loss for one is gain to another. We rejoice over victories with scarcely a thought for their victims.

Let us therefore recall the greater events in the history of our land, making them lessons not only to the young, but take them to ourselves. This is the purpose of the association of newspaper men who chronicled the events at Johnstown. For this they gathered around a festive board in Union club last night.

The educational value of these memorial occasions is not fully comprehended and appreciated by those who teach, much less by those who need to be taught.

In fact, too much of our teaching is done in school houses, and after a cut-and-dry fashion. There is but little in this to deeply impress learners. It is so lacking in human interest that they are only too willing to turn from their rigidly correct books to yellow-back stories.

The hunger for this sort of stuff is a clear indication that something is being omitted from the standard bill of fare which the nature of pupils demand.

That there is a growing feeling in favor of more rational, more practical education, is shown by frequent expressions on the part of thoughtful, observant people. Following is a letter by one of these:

Mr. Quiet Observer:—It was quite a surprise, and a pleasant one at that, to notice that even you sometimes get a new idea into your dear old head. Even you find out sometimes that too much sweetness palls upon the taste, and drop the old maids, the marriage question and such, and take up the all-important question of the education of the boys.

Your quotation from one John B. Riddle of Chicago suggested to me the plan of Bishop Spaulding of Peoria, for the education of children.

He says it would be a far better plan to send children at the age of six, when they are usually sent to school, to some large farm in the country where they could come into touch with nature, do nothing compulsory, but play and romp in the fields and learn nature's lesson of love.

About the only thing that instructors would be required to inculcate upon the minds of their charges would be the necessity of learning and to foster a desire for it.

Imagine the little tots spending their best days on the hard benches of the school. Can't you recall the time when you were sitting sleepily listening to the drone of the reading class and thinking of the green fields and the flowers and butterflies? Really, now, don't you think that is cruelty to the little children?

There is no better teacher of love and gentleness than is nature. Her teachings and promptings are silent and inobtrusive and, therefore, all the more powerful. Gentleness is the foundation of all natural virtue and grace; and where can a child see it more than in nature? Can't you recall the placid joy that filled your whole being when lying in the shade of a tree on a warm summer day inhaling the simple perfume of the surrounding fields and listening to the twittering of the birds in the limbs overhead? Do you think that you could do any evil then?

My land of birth is thousands of miles away, but it is the recollections of those moments that inspire me with new resolutions.

How can I ever forget the feelings, then little understood, that quiet joy, that pervaded my whole being when resting after long roaming in the shade of an old linden tree, from the roots of which bubbled the freshest kind of water, inhaling the sweet scent of that tree and listening to the buzz of the multitude of bees in its branches?

Surely the mind of the boy of 12 laden with the sweetness of the fields and imbued with a desire for higher learning as it must be, will learn more in two years than it would have done the previous six years of drudgery. Nature's lessons of gentleness and love will bear ample fruits in later life.

A LOVER OF NATURE.

Rowing at Princeton.

Away back in 1870 Princeton purchased an old shell from Yale to take the first spin on the Raritan canal, the students lining both banks to see the six prospective oarsmen in their initial row. Not one had been in a shell before. Their efforts, supplemented by Princeton enthusiasm, soon filled the boat with water, compelling the oarsmen to take an involuntary cold plunge in order to reach the shore. Princeton, nevertheless, developed some excellent crews until 1881, when she withdrew from the association.—Bookbuyers' Magazine.

TALKED OF IN GOTHAM

By FRANK A. PARKER.

(By Private Wire to The Gazette.)

NEW YORK, May 31.—Bids were received today for further remodeling of the magnificent new hall of records. The alterations which will delay the completion of the structure for another year, it is expected will cost about $500,000. This massive building, which attracts general attention by reason of its beautiful white marble facade, has been building for ten years, and several times the city has been ready to occupy it when some new need has been discovered or some alleged defect in construction has demanded rectification and the building thereupon has gone into the hands of new contractors for further tinkering. The magnitude of the new contract may be imagined from the bond which the successful bidder must put up—namely $250,000.

The specifications call for practically the reconstruction of every floor from basement to roof, and the time allotted for the completion of the work is 200 days, exclusive of Sundays and holidays, so that it will be May of next year before it can be completed, even allowing for fast work. The contract for the building was let ten years ago, under the administration of Mayor Strong. John R. Thomas, one of the ablest architects of his time, designed the beautiful exterior of the building. When Mayor Wyck came in Horgan & Slattery were made the architects. The Tammany architects had their names chiseled on the corner of the building.

From the time they took charge Tammany contractors have been busy making changes. The first change was when the Van Wyck board of estimates substituted plaster cement for the walls instead of Italian marble. This made it necessary to remodel the plans. Then from time to time the interior design was changed. Under the Low administration Italian marble was again decided upon for the interior.

Honors Paid to Capt. Goddard.

Simplicity marked the funeral service held today at All Souls Unitarian church, Fourth avenue and Twentieth street, over the body of Capt. F. Norton Goddard, president of the Anti-Policy society and leader in municipal reform, which was attended by a gathering that filled the great edifice to overflowing. The catafalque, placed immediately before the pulpit, was banked with floral tokens from nearly every prominent individual and organization affiliated with local politics, including a magnificent wreath of white roses attached to which were separate cards bearing the inscriptions "The President," and "Mrs. Roosevelt," respectively. Several negroes and many persons in the poorest attire were in line and seemed most to feel keenly the loss they suffered by the death of the reformer.

More Power Given Police.

"The cure of crime is punishment beginning usually with arrest. The worth of prevention compared to cure is as 10 to 1 by a well known formula." These statements were made today by Judge Maclean of the supreme court in a decision denying the application of Frank A. Phelan for an injunction to restrain the police commissioner and Capt. O'Brien from picketing his place with policemen on the ground that the place was suspected of being a pool room. After reciting the facts, the opinion concludes, in reference to the prevention of crime as follows:

"It is a fact that in the long statutory recital of the functions of the police, the duty to preserve the public peace and prevent crime comes first. So long as this duty is imposed upon the commissioner he must make his measures so strict that violations of the law cannot take place, and this exercise of a wide discretion in that regard will not be interfered with in this department."

The Erie Fond of the Grape.

F. W. Gristock, of Penn Yan, an expert in the handling and marketing of grapes, has been appointed commercial agent of the Erie railroad. When the Erie railroad assumed control of the property of the Bath & Hammondsport railroad and the Lake Keuka Navigation companies, it decided to develop the territory alike for the benefit of the company and the inhabitants of the region, and the appointment of a commercial agent is a preliminary step in that direction. Mr. Gristock will devote his entire time and energies to the safe and economical handling and most profitable marketing of the grape crop, one of the most prolific of the small fruit crops of this wonderfully fertile region. Commodious warehouses and docks for the handling of the crops are to be erected on the water front at Hammondsport as a central shipping point for the producers.

Revolutionary Tunnel Is Ill-Used.

After months of unsuccessful endeavor detectives of the West Chester police station, disguised as fishermen, succeeded in obtaining evidence which led to the arrest of Charles Booker, who keeps a resort at Scribbens Point, Unionport, on a charge of selling liquor without a license. Search of Booker's resort is said by policemen to have revealed liquor stored in a secret tunnel underneath the building, which, in revolutionary times, was used as a retreat by fugitive continental soldiers. The tunnel is effectually hidden and leads to the river bank, 50 feet away. Booker was married only a few weeks ago. His wife became hysterical when he was placed under arrest. It took the detective an hour to convince her that Booker would not be sentenced to death for the offense.

Another Dog Show Is Coming.

More than 1,600 entries have been received for the third annual summer show of the Ladies' Kennel Association of America, which will be held at Mineola. Many blue ribbon winners are among this list of thoroughbred dogs, and the judges will have extremely difficult tasks in selecting prize winners in the different classes. Sporting spaniels lead in the number of entries with 66, bull terriers are second with 55, fox terriers are next with 54 and the Airedale, Irish and Boston breed of terriers are next in order, all with more than 50.

THE EXPOSITION.

Features of the Oregon Fair.

The exposition which opens at Portland (Ore.) today takes its name from two lately explored, Capts. Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, who, with a little band of followers, planted the stripes and stars 100 years ago and discovered an overland route to the Pacific ocean, thereby adding by right of discovery and exploration a territory of 207,000 square miles to the holdings of the United States on the American continent. The event certainly is worthy of suitable commemoration by a centennial exposition and a fair worthy of the event. While smaller than the expositions held at Chicago and St. Louis, this exposition is by great odds the biggest thing ever attempted in the Pacific west, and there are many things about it which make it well worthy a transcontinental trip.

A Beautiful Site.

The site comprises a natural park, and the principal exhibition palaces, nestling among the trees, overlook a beautiful little lake, called Guild's lake, and the Willamette river. In the center of the lake is a peninsula which looks from the mainland like a verdure covered island, while in the distance rise four mighty snow-capped mountains—Mount Hood, Mount Ranier, Mount Adams and Mount St. Helens.

The principal admission gates will be between pillars of the ornate Colonnade entrance, which is within a stone's throw of Columbia court, the central plaza of the exposition. The court consists of two wide avenues, with beautiful sunken gardens between them, and which are flanked by the agricultural palace and the European exhibits building. On either side of these buildings, with their short sides facing the lake, are situated the other main exhibition palaces, which bear the names oriental exhibits, forestry, mines and metallurgy, fine arts and machinery, electricity and transportation. The buildings, all covered with ivory white staff, are built on one general architectural scheme, embodying a free form of the Spanish renaissance.

The Government Buildings.

On the government peninsula, which is reached by the way of the bridge of nations, the main government building will occupy three acres. The structure will be flanked by two towers, each 200 feet high, and ornate peristyles will lead to smaller structures which will house the territorial, irrigation and fisheries exhibits, a fourth smaller building being used as a life-saving station. The government's exhibit will represent an aggregate expenditure of $600,000.

England will maintain her dignity against Germany and Germany against France, while Japan and Russia will struggle for supremacy in a battle of peace. Great interest will center about the exhibits from Japan and Russia, both nations having been attracted by the oriental aspect of the fair. The Japanese are planning for a big national pavilion in which will be shown their products, manufactures, educational conditions and displays of fine and liberal arts. Russian participation will be on much the same lines, particular attention being given to silk weaving and other manufacturing industries.

The Railroad Rates and Admissions.

The action of the Trunk Line association and the Central Passenger association on April 12 in granting a one-way rate, plus $2, from all eastern points east to Chicago for those desiring to visit the exposition assures an attendance beyond previous expectations from the eastern territory. The special tickets will be sold every day of the exposition, and delegates to any of the 35 national conventions will not have to wait for convention selling dates.

There has been much inquiry regarding rates to the exposition, as the trip is ideal for a summer outing. Railroad men say these inquiries come from the better class of people—those who have money to spend. It is said by railway officials that the Lewis and Clark exposition will differ from all former fairs in this respect—that it will attract only the well-to-do visitors.

How the President Reduced Commission.

President Roosevelt appears to have played a joke upon the majority of the canal commission. Four of them are pigeon-holed in a large airy office building in Washington, while three have sailed for Panama to dig the canal. The four will be supplied with ink, paper for plans and fountain pens with which to receipt for their salaries. Twice a year they will be allowed to go to Panama and see what the boys are doing down there. This is the president's rather effective way of reducing a commission of seven members to one of three.—Indianapolis Journal.

Amateur and Professional.

The distinction between the amateur and the professional sportsman is very fairly stated: no question of morals is involved except as the athlete who really indulges in sport not for sport's sake alone, but for "what there is in it," is allowed to compete with, and as one of, those who "play only for recreation and enjoyment." Contests between professionals and amateurs are "unequal if the facts are known; unfair, if the facts are concealed."—New York Sun.

Kansas' Luck.

As a discoverer Kansas is a hoodoo. If we should find gold in virgin purity that could be mined by the ton, gold would at once be demonetized and sold as lead on the market. If a cave of diamonds should be discovered diamonds would be used for paving stones and be sold by the ton. Kansas is original, very original, but her originality has never brought anything for her save advertising space.—Lawrence Gazette.

A Stenographer's Spelling.

"Where on earth did you ever learn to spell, young man?" asked the lawyer of his clerk, who had been copying some documents for him.

"My sister taught me, sir," was the youth's reply.

"Well, I judge from your spelling that your sister is no school teacher."

"No, sir," replied the modest boy, "she's a stenographer."—Yonkers Statesman.

The Sailing of Rojestvensky.

We polished our guns and we scrubbed our decks;
And we sailed.
We climbed the masts and we craned our necks,
And we sailed.
Oh, we headed out to the wild North sea,
Scared half to death, and we shot, did we,
At the fishermen there, when they failed to flee,
And we sailed.

The Japs were far o'er the ragin' main,
And we sailed;
We fooled a while on the shores of Spain,
And we sailed.
We hovered long by the Black man's coast,
We climbed our glasses in many a toast
Where the sun was busy enough to roast,
And we sailed.

We loitered 'round in the Frenchman's bays,
And we sailed;
We thought of home and of happy days,
And we sailed.
We kept the vodka a-flowin' free
As we rounded up in the Yellow sea,
A-wonderin' where the Japs could be,
And we sailed.

We cleared the decks and our glasses were said,
And we sailed;
A little old strait lay straight ahead,
And we sailed.
Oh, we met the Japs where they lay in wait,
And they hammered some and we found, too late,
No way to sail but to sail down straight,
And we sailed.

ABOUT PUBLIC MEN.

Admiral Schley's Chivalry.

The admiral and Mrs. Schley stayed at Washington some time since and took up their abode in a modest boarding house which has been their home for many years. One evening the admiral was smoking in the lobby and swapping yarns with some old cronies when the clerk at the desk told him that some one wanted to speak with him over the phone. He went to the instrument cigar in hand and his hat rakishly perched on one side.

His friends heard him say: "Yes, this is Admiral Schley, who is speaking to me?" Then they saw the old salt spruce up, toss his cigar away, and lift his hat high above his head. "Why how do you do, Mrs. Green? I am very glad to speak to you and to know you are well. Yes, Mrs. Schley is very well," and then came a crowding of questions about every member of the family collectively and individually, all the time the admiral with his hat off, smiling and bowing at every word.

When he finished he was greeted with wild applause, and for some minutes he failed to see the joke. He felt it himself but he said to throw away his cigar and take off his hat even while talking over the 'phone to a lady.—Detroit Free Press.

Got Even With the Captain.

Capt. Frederick Muller, the president of the Rough Riders' association, was talking in Santa Fe about the arrogance of a sea captain whom he knew. "It is impossible for a passenger," Capt. Muller said, "to get a civil answer out of this man. Ask him the simplest and politest question, and with a gruff impertinence he turns his back on you and walks away."

Capt. Muller smiled.

"But a friend of mine," he said, "once got the better of the sour old fellow in a delightful way.

"The captain was standing near the bow of the boat, exhaling through his glasses a passing ship.

"'What ship is that?' said my friend.

"The captain frowned at him.

"'Go ask the cook,' he said.

"'Oh, I beg your pardon,' said my friend. 'I thought you were the cook.'"—Los Angeles Times.

Guns and Armor.

S. W. Briggs, secretary of the American Red Cross, said of modern warfare the other day:

"The expense of keeping perfectly armed is infinite. For a nation to keep perfectly armed is, indeed, impossible. It is like trying to fill a sieve with water.

"There was repeated to me the other day a remark that illustrates in a humorous way the futility and the cost of modern armaments.

"The head of a great armor and gun making house said to the agent of a foreign government:

"'Then sir, I understand that you want us to make you an armor plate no projectile can pierce? We are producing armor plate like that daily.'

"'No,' replied the military agent, 'you mistake me. I want to know if you can make a gun that will pierce any armor plate.'

"'Certainly, sir, certainly,' said the manufacturer. 'We are doing that sort of thing every day.'"—Topeka Journal.

Cleveland's Joke on New Jersey.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland tells a story of a Sunday school teacher who was explaining the lesson to the children in his class. He read impressively from the Bible:

"And the last state of that man was worse than the first." Then he asked, "Can any little boy tell me what this means?"

Up popped a tiny lad in the rear seat, who piped forth:

"Please sir, the man moved to New Jersey."—New York Times.

Garfield's Tennis Playing.

James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, enjoys some of the kinds of recreation which President Roosevelt cares for. He is one of those who can tramp off with the president and keep pace with him easily. He also likes to take bicycle rides through the country and to play tennis. It is said that at the time he was appointed to his present office he was a little off his tennis playing. One day after he had lost several sets to the president on the court south of the White House building he noticed that looked like zeros, the president exclaimed: "Garfield if you make so poor a commissioner of corporations as you do a tennis player, I'm going to put another man in your place." Lincoln and the Bore.

The late Hon. Charles W. Slack told the following of the Hon. Peter Harvey, the friend and biographer of Daniel Webster:

"Mr. Harvey was a large man with a small voice and that peculiarity of manner that many very different men possess. Above everything he valued and prided himself upon his friendship with the 'great expounder.'

"The first year of the war of the rebellion he went to Washington, and on his return was asked how he liked President Lincoln.

"'Well,' he said, 'Mr. Lincoln is a very singular man. I went to see him, and told him I had been an intimate personal friend of Daniel Webster; that I had talked with him so much on the affairs of the country that I felt perfectly confident I could tell him exactly what Mr. Webster would advise in the present crisis, and thereupon talked with Lincoln for two solid hours, telling him what he should do and what he should not do; and all through, all Mr. Lincoln said was, as he clapped his hand on my leg: 'Mr. Harvey, what a tremendous calf you have got.'"—Boston Herald.

CRIME BY CITY, DECLARED CLARK

Director Insists That Consumptive Patients Spread the Disease at Marshalsea.

STARTS TEMPORARY HOSPITAL

"It is a crime to make persons free from disease live with others who are in the last stages of consumption, as we are forced to do at the city poor farm at Marshalsea because councils did not give us an appropriation to build a hospital for tuberculosis cases," said Director James W. Clark of the department of charities yesterday.

"We have established a temporary hospital in the steward's house, where we have about 50 cases, but we ought to have a hospital large enough to care for at least 200 consumptive cases. We have now at Marshalsea 110 inmates afflicted with consumption in its worst form, and last year 103 inmates died of this disease at Marshalsea. When we get a consumptive case it is generally only a question of time until the patient dies. Sometimes they live a few months or weeks and often only a few days."

Director Clark gave these facts yesterday afternoon to the council committee on charities, called to consider an ordinance authorizing the employment of an examining physician at $100 a month and a resident clerk at Marshalsea at $50 a month. He stated that Dr. C. J. O'Neil, the city physician in the first poor district of the city, had been acting as examining physician in addition to his other duties, and receives only $50 a month.

He said he proposed to abolish the position of first district physician and to make Dr. O'Neil the examining physician at double his present salary. He said the same result could be attained by either abolishing the position of first district physician or giving him the additional position of examining physician at $50 a month instead of $100. He said either way would be satisfactory to him. Councilmans H. S. Burns and William Brand argued in favor of allowing Dr. O'Neil to retain his present position at $50 a month and to give him $50 a month extra as examining physician. The ordinance was amended to this effect.

The legality of the ordinance is seriously questioned, however, because the right of a person to hold two positions under the city and draw two salaries is doubted. It was feared by Director Clark that if the salary of the first district physician was doubled it might create dissatisfaction among the other district physicians. There are 10 districts in the city and a physician for each.

Since the smallpox epidemic in Pittsburgh the first district physician has been examining all applicants for admission to the city home to ascertain whether they are free from contagious diseases. The explanation of this feature of the duties of the examining physician called forth the remarks made by Director Clark regarding the consumptive patients at the home.

CELEBRATION OF FOURTH CONFINED TO FIREWORKS

Mayor Hays Asks for Contributions to Fund—Greater Pittsburgh Demonstration Abandoned.

Mayor Hays yesterday began sending letters to business firms and corporations asking for contributions to the fund for the Fourth of July celebration. The mayor's letter states that the celebration will be one long remembered and will be confined principally to a fireworks display in the evening. It is proposed to dispense with the usual program of sports, as they have been losing in interest for several years, and last year there was considerable dissatisfaction over this feature.

The proposed monster demonstration in favor of Greater Pittsburgh, which it had been suggested to make a part of the Fourth of July festivities, will not take place because of the delay of the supreme court in handing down a decision in the bill creating a greater city. The fireworks display, to which the celebration will be restricted, will be given as usual, in Schenley park.

TO MEET IN ALLEGHENY.

State Postal Clerks' Association Selects the North Side for Next Annual Convention.

Allegheny members of the Postal Clerks' Association of Pennsylvania yesterday returned home highly elated over securing the next annual convention of the association for Allegheny. The convention will be held on the North Side next May. The North Side members went to the convention which was in session four days in Altoona, and was concluded with a banquet Tuesday night, with the chief object of proving that Western Pennsylvania has a right to recognition from the state association. The Allegheny members got everything they asked for and could have had the presidency of the state association, it is said, if they wanted it. They wanted the 1906 convention and got it. At the banquet Tuesday night Postmaster John Francies of Allegheny was one of the principal speakers.

WRECKS ICE CREAM WAGON; BOYS GORGE THEMSELVES

The youthful population of Munhall was given a treat yesterday afternoon when a wagon, owned by Adam Forsyth, an ice cream manufacturer, was struck and wrecked by a street car. Forty gallons of ice cream in bricks, were scattered about the street. William Huey, the driver, had his right arm broken. The wagon was completely wrecked and so, for a time, will be the digestive organs of many of Munhall's most promising juveniles.

An antidote was administered and the patient was soon out of danger.

STRIKERS' CASE REACHES COURT

Judge Kohlsaat Decides United States Tribunal Has Jurisdiction in the Matter.

CHICAGO HAS QUIET DAY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, May 31.—Judge Kohlsaat of the United States circuit court today decided that the federal courts have jurisdiction over the bills for injunctions brought by the express companies against the striking teamsters. The attorneys for the teamsters denied that the federal court has jurisdiction over such bills, basing their contention on the declaration that the express companies are not engaged in interstate commerce.

President Shea of the Teamsters' union appeared before the grand jury this afternoon and was questioned for two hours. He told the story of the working of the international and local teamsters' unions. When questioned as to his knowledge of the alleged black list maintained by the express companies against the teamsters, he was unable to tell anything definitely.

President Shea was also asked regarding conferences between labor leaders and employers, but in this direction his evidence was unimportant. He denied any conspiracy on the part of the labor leaders and insisted that much of the trouble that had taken place in the streets had been caused by the private detectives and other representatives of the employers' association to excite sympathy against the strikers.

The strike today was quiet. There were a few fights, but in none of them was anybody seriously injured.

The only increase to the number of strikers consisted of the 12 teamsters employed by the Weaver Coat Company, who went out when ordered to make deliveries to the American Express Company.

Wife and Daughter Seek Revenge.

James Benning of Dravosburg was committed to jail yesterday by Justice Charles Wallace on a charge of larceny. A week ago Benning sued his wife and daughter for assault and battery before Justice Wallace. Both women were fined, and to get revenge, they entered an information for larceny against Benning yesterday. They asserted that Benning had stolen a number of articles from a store in McKeesport where he was employed as a clerk. The man was arrested, and when his house was searched a number of match boxes and cigarette cases were found, for which he was unable to account satisfactorily.

The McDougall Kitchen Cabinet

Is an example of the way in which Domestic Science is introducing system into the equipment of the kitchen. It systematizes and simplifies the work by bringing together, into the smallest possible space, all of the utensils and food-supplies needed in cooking.

Other bins hold sugar, cereals, tea, coffee and salt.

In racks are rows of neat lacquered cans for spices.

The china closet is complete with plate rails and cup hooks.

There are cupboards for pickles, preserves and canned goods; drawers for groceries, for linen; for cutlery, etc.; sufficient closet room for cooking dishes; a shelf of generous size; a breadboard and ample table space. All of these things are included in a floor space of but 27 by 44 inches, and all are within easy reach of the hand.

McDougall Kitchen Cabinets

LIGHTS GLITTER IN LUNA PARK

Wonder Palaces in Pittsburgh's New Pleasure Resort Open for Inspection.

GEISHA GIRLS FASCINATING

The light of 1,812,000 dazzling candles illuminated the wonder palaces of Pittsburgh's Luna park last night. In its bright glare there was revealed a broad plaza surrounded by fantastic structures, exemplifying the summer architecture of all the world—all those odd things which have existence only in the midway of a world's fair or the pier of a seaside resort.

Of course there were not millions of tallow candles burning in Luna park last night. Pittsburgh's new playground is up to date in all things, and it was only for the purpose of giving the people an idea of the immense amount of light which transformed a cloudy night into a June moonlight that Chief Electrician A. D. Palmer spoke of units of candle-power when he threw the big electric switch which governs the illumination of the park. To be more explicit 67,000 incandescent lamps dispelled the gloom and each of these is registered as 16-candle power. In addition to the tiny globes were 120 2,000-candle power are lights. The electric lights are advantageously placed about the cornices of the buildings and to the spectator they looked like phantom palaces outlined in fire.

These lights would suffice to illuminate half the dwellings in Pittsburgh, but, in addition to the incandescent bulbs and the arc are lamps, a great searchlight of 28,000-candle power is being placed upon one of the towers. The searchlight was made for a United States battleship, and with a 16-inch projected lens will hurl a powerful beam of light a distance of 10 miles.

Several hundred people last night were privileged to inspect the park after the lights were turned on. All the buildings are practically completed and little remains to be done aside from clearing away the debris left by the workmen and placing the concrete walks. A number of the concessionaires have arrived and are placing their exhibits in order. A party of Japanese geisha girls visited their new quarters last night and were the objects of much curiosity as they glided about the grounds in their quaint native costumes.

The automatic vaudeville theater was open and the visitors saw 117 different kinds of 5-slot machines. The unhappy part of this was that all the machines were locked and the man who gained 10 pounds in the last week, the man who could wield the hammer for 1,400 pounds and the man who could blow 185 pounds to the inch was obliged to stand idly by with the girls who wanted nickle-in-the-slot chewing gum and chocolates. The automatic theater will not be in working order until Monday. The patron who wanted to steal a glance into the peep machines likewise balked and, perhaps, experienced the greatest disappointment. At 10 o'clock the "Good Night" alert was put up and everybody took the hint. A glimpse of Luna park creates a desire for a return ticket.

THROW ELECTION TO CONTROLLERS

Opponents of Principal Johnston in Local Board Prevent Vote.

BOND LONG DUE TURNS UP

Opponents of Principal E. P. Johnston in the Seventh ward (Allegheny) school board last night carried out their plan of preventing an election of principal for the ensuing school year and their action throws the election to the board of school controllers.

Succeeding in this the opponents of Johnston claim the board of controllers will elect some person besides Johnston as principal, because the board holds the resignation of Johnston which is to take effect on June 30. The opposition to the principal claim the central board will accept the resignation of Mr. Johnston at the regular monthly meeting on next Tuesday night.

The members of the Seventh ward board fighting Principal Johnston positively refused last night to vote on any candidates for principal. The chief opponent to Mr. Johnston is Dr. I. N. Lear, president of the board. It was he that presented the resolution to the board of controllers a few months ago asking for an investigation of reports relating to the affairs of the Seventh ward school involving the principal.

It is stated the investigation related to things alleged to have happened in the Seventh ward school several years ago. Dr. Lear said last night that he has been a member of the Seventh ward board over a year. He was asked why he had waited a year after becoming a member of the board before he had asked for an investigation. He pleaded that he was ignorant of what had happened at the school several years ago until only recently.

Associated with Dr. Lear are William S. Genter and August Hingst. They compose half of the board. The three members who support Principal Johnston are Louis Yeager, David Runnel and James Wettach.

Fifteen persons have filed their applications for principal, but not one of these applications were read to the board last night. The first object of the opposition is to give the board of school controllers an opportunity to declare the office of principal vacant by accepting Mr. Johnston's resignation and then allow the central body to elect. All the old teachers are applicants for re-election.

The election of janitors resulted in the selection of the present incumbents. It was announced that an old Seventh ward school bond for the sum of $1,000, which fell due 10 years ago, and which had never been presented for payment and could not be found, had turned up. It had been found in the German National bank of Allegheny. The board agreed that it would have to be paid, although a former board had marked the bond cancelled.

The school board of the Eleventh ward, Allegheny, last night elected Charles R. Foster principal. He will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of R. M. Sherrard, who goes to the Hiland sub-district schools in Pittsburgh. Mr. Foster is now principal of the Centennial school of McKeesport. The board also re-elected its present corps of teachers.

Are Captured by Detectives in a Store Which Had Been Robbed Several Times.

Detectives Riley and Crooks last night arrested Constantine Mugianny and George and Adam Adanakis, Greeks, as suspicious persons. The men were caught in the tailor shop of Jacob Leith, third floor of 514 Fifth avenue. They are suspected of having robbed that place twice.

A report was made of a robbery in Leith's place several weeks ago. A few days later Leith went to the fourth floor of the building and found a lot of the stolen garments. While he was on that mission the thieves carried away the plunder. While passing his store last evening Leith noticed the window of the fourth floor open. He went to the third floor and heard someone inside. He saw Detectives Riley and Crooks in the street. The officers broke in his shop and caught the men.

PEACE ADVOCATES ARE IN SESSION

Three Hundred Distinguished Delegates Attend Conference on Arbitration.

REVIEW OF YEAR'S PROGRESS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., May 31.—The annual Lake Mohonk conference on arbitration was begun here today. The opening address was made by the president, Judge George Gray, who was followed by Dr. Benjamin F. Trueblood in an address on "The Year's Progress in International Arbitration."

Nearly 300 advocates of peace from all parts of the United States and some of the foreign countries were present when Albert K. Smiley, the host, welcomed the members. Included in the conference were: Justice David J. Brewer of Washington; Chief Justice Moore of the supreme court of Michigan; W. P. Potter of the Pennsylvania supreme court; Oscar S. Straus and J. M. Gamboa, both members of the permanent Hague tribunal; Count de la Rocca and Dr. Jose J. J. Paul, respectively French and Venezuelan members of the same Venezuelan claims commission; Gov. Utter of Rhode Island; Congressman Littlefield of Maine; Japanese Consul General Uchida of New York, and District of Columbia Commissioner McFarland of Washington.

Business Bodies Represented.

Among others attending are: Dr. Lyman Abbott and the Rev. Dr. Robert S. McArthur of New York and Bishop Cyrus D. Foss of Philadelphia. Over 50 business organizations of the country have official representatives here, among them being the Massachusetts state board of trade, the Manufacturers' association of New York; the Trades league of Philadelphia; the Merchants exchange of St. Louis; the chambers of commerce of Boston, Rochester and Milwaukee; the boards of trade of Baltimore, Scranton, Pa., and Columbus, O.

Other speakers were Samuel J. Barrows, Dr. George W. Washburn, Dr. Daniel C. Gilman, Clinton Rogers Woodruff of Philadelphia and Edwin D. Mead.

Judge Gray said among other things:

It is a significant sign of the progress that the cause of international arbitration has made in the 10 years during which these conferences have been held that, in the discussion which preceded the refusal by the senate to ratify any of the arbitration treaties sent to it by the president, no voice was heard in opposition to the principle of international arbitration, or at least none important enough or strong enough to gain a national hearing.

Takes Senate to Task.

Without challenging the sincerity or intelligence of those who adhere to the senate's view, we may indulge the hope that the friends of arbitration in the senate (and we have no right to assume that all its members are not such) will find a way by which the government of the United States, though it is treaty-making power, may join the other civilized nations of the world in binding itself to submit "differences which may arise of a legal nature, or relating to the interpretation of treaties existing between the two contracting parties, and which it may not have been possible to settle by diplomacy," to the permanent court of arbitration established at The Hague, without requiring the merely subordinate agreement as to procedure in each case, to be ratified by two-thirds of the senate. To say that this cannot be done, would argue a degree of imbecility and weakness in our federal government that I do not believe exists.

The treaty-making powers, as conferred by the Constitution on the president and the senate, is without expressed limitation of restriction, and it is surely broad enough to subscribe a covenant by the United States to pursue a prescribed line of conduct with reference to future contingencies. I think, therefore, the president did well to withdraw the treaties for the present, without accepting the senate amendment, which would practically have defeated their purpose. Here we may leave the matter, with the reasonable assurance that the public opinion and awakened conscience of our country will not rest satisfied that the government of the United States shall continue to be alone among the signatory powers of The Hague convention, in not responding to this great movement to support and strengthen the tribunal thereby established.

Review of Progress.

President Trueblood said in part:

Arbitration, like all other principles of progress, has its ups and its downs. It has apparently had both these the past year. On Friday morning of our last year's conference here Mr. Smiley announced from this table that an arbitration treaty had just been signed between Spain and Portugal, and this was declared to be the eighth of the treaties of obligatory arbitration signed within the preceding eight months.

Since that time 22 other treaties have been signed, bringing the whole number up to 30. About half of these treaties have been ratified and are in force. All of the nations of Western Europe are signatories of some of them, and they are thus practically bound together in the bonds of peace for a period of five years.

It is worthy of note that not a single arbitration has as yet occurred under the provisions of any of these treaties, and the probabilities are that the five years will pass without any practical application of them. The spirit which has brought them into existence will probably prevent any serious disputes from arising, or if not, will secure their adjustment by direct diplomatic methods.

The failure of the eight treaties signed by Secretary of State Hay, to go into effect, because of the disagreement between the senate and the president as to their powers and prerogatives under the Constitution, has been a great disappointment to most of the friends of arbitration in this country.

Cases in Arbitration.

The Hague court has not settled any dispute during the year. The tribunal chosen from that court to adjudicate the Japanese house tax case has practically completed its work and the award may be expected at an early day. Within the year also, Great Britain and France, under the terms of the general agreement between them, have decided to refer to the court the disputed question of the French protectorate over the sultan of Muscat.

Outside of The Hague court the principal cases either settled, or in process of adjustment, are:

The French-Venezuelan claims case.

The boundary question between Costa Rica and Panama.

The question of the indemnity claims of the Newfoundland French fishermen.

The Reid-Newfoundland company claims case.

A question of the boundary between Ecuador and Peru.

The Paroissien boundary controversy between Great Britain and Portugal.

The British-Brazilian Guiana boundary dispute.

The Swedish-Norwegian sea-frontier question.

The British-Russian seal fisheries dispute originally submitted to arbitration, but finally settled by compromise.)

The Kautao island case between China and Korea.

The Venezuelan-Italian claims case.

The question of disputed boundaries between Brazil and Peru.

The San Domingo improvement Company case.

The Ecuador-Columbian boundary dispute.

The most noteworthy international pacific settlement of the year was that of the North sea incident between Great Britain and Russia.

Justice Brewer Speaks.

Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court also spoke. He referred to the great and increasing cost of modern warfare, saying he had been told recently by one of our admirals that every shot of a 12-inch gun cost $710. Referring to the 202 arbitrations which have been made in the past century, he said it was a significant fact that no nation had ever repudiated an award made against it, the reason being that the public opinion of the world sustained these decisions, and no nation dared to disregard that opinion.

Justice Brewer was followed by Carroll D. Wright, who spoke on "The Wage-earner's Interest in International Arbitration."

OPPOSE CHURCH CELEBRATIONS

Reformed Presbyterians Come Out Against Christmas and Easter Observances.

TREASURER THINKS PAY LARGE

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., May 31.—The seventy-sixth general synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church adjourned at noon today to meet May 30, 1906, at Belle Center, O.

Resolutions were passed against the large increase of so-called religious holidays, Christmas and Easter being specifically mentioned. The denomination desires no church holidays celebrated, other than those divinely appointed by God and affirms that the church abstain from all such customs as are popish in their origin or injurious as lending sacredness to rites that come from Paganism.

J. S. Tibby of Allegheny, elected treasurer of the board of synod trustees, announced he would only accept $800 of the $1,500 salary attaching to his office, using the other $800 in furthering the work of the church.

A. B. Copeland, Daniel Chestnut and A. C. Coulter have been elected members of the synod board of trustees for terms of three years each. The following permanent committee for the year will have charge of the various departments named:

To examine the work of the joint psalmody commission—D. B. Wilson, J. S. Black, T. M. Slater, F. M. Foster, C. D. Trumbull. To adjust relations between sustentation and domestic mission boards—W. W. Caruthers, F. M. Foster, A. J. McFarland, Jr., D. G. McKee, S. A. Matheny. Railroad rates—C. D. Trumbull, J. S. Martin, S. G. Shaw.

The following appropriations were authorized for the various departments under control of the church: Literary fund, $1,000; library fund of Geneva college, $250; Aged Peoples Home of Allegheny, $1,000; Widow and Orphans Home, $2,500; aged minister's fund, $1,500; student's aid fund, $1,000; Indian mission fund, $5,000; domestic mission fund, $12,000; Jewish mission fund, $3,000; southern mission fund, $5,000; Chinese home missions, $1,000; Syrian mission, $15,000; national reform work, $7,000; theological seminary, $1,500; missions in China, $6,000; testimony bearing fund, $4,000; sustentation, $8,000; Geneva college, $2,500; church erection, $3,000.

WILL ASK PRESIDENT TO AID STATE OFFICERS

Dr. Warren Has Appointment With Mr. Roosevelt on Pure Food Subject.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, May 31.—President Roosevelt's personal attention will be called to the alleged refusal of Revenue Collector Heiner of Pittsburgh and other federal officials in Pennsylvania to co-operate with the state dairy and food bureau for the enforcement of the dairy and food laws of Pennsylvania.

Commissioner Warren will go to Washington tomorrow with his attorney, A. H. Woodward of Clearfield, to meet the president by appointment, to discuss this matter and ask that he take action to secure the co-operation of all the federal officials in this state for the enforcement of these laws.

The state authorities claim that certain federal officials in Eastern Pennsylvania have refused to co-operate with the bureau for the suppression of the illegal traffic in oleomargarine. Dr. Warren believes that when the president understands the situation he will issue orders directing the federal authorities to unite with the state officers to enforce the law.

Pennsylvania will withdraw from the association of state dairy and food departments, at its annual meeting at Portland, Ore., July 10-15, because of the refusal of its officers to probe the charges made by representatives of this state against certain persons connected with the association, at its annual meeting in St. Louis one year ago. These charges were in the form of affidavits that the alleged offenders threatened certain manufacturers of food products with prosecution by the dairy and food department of Pennsylvania, unless they advertised their products in a publication issued by the association.

TO MAKE NOMINATIONS.

Allegheny County Prohibitionists Will Meet This Afternoon.

Prohibitionists of Allegheny county will meet in the Second Presbyterian church this afternoon at 1 o'clock to nominate candidates for county offices and appoint delegates to the state convention to be held in Williamsport on August 23.

Clinton N. Howard of Rochester, N. Y., will address the convention and speak at a meeting in the Fourth avenue Baptist church in the evening.

THEATRICAL MEN MUST FACE JURY

The So-Called Syndicate of Amusement Managers Will Be Tried for Conspiracy.

FIRST BLOOD FOR MITCHELL

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 31.—Twenty-four members of the so-called theatrical trust will have to stand trial on a charge of conspiracy, in accordance with a decision rendered today by City Magistrate Joseph Pool, in the West Side court, in the long-pending complaint of James S. Metcalfe, the dramatic critic, against the Theatrical Managers' association. Metcalfe charged conspiracy in that the members of the association passed a resolution, January 12 last, by which they agreed to bar him from their theaters.

The men held are Marc Klaw, Abraham L. Erlanger, Oscar Hammerstein, Daniel Frohman, Charles M. Burnham, Joseph K. Brooks, Heinrich Conried, James H. Curtin, Martin Dickson, Frank McKee, J. W. Rosenquest, A. L. Braden, Joseph L. Springer, Leo Teller, Alf Hyman, George Kraus, E. D. Stair, W. F. Keogh, I. L. Lichenstein, Antonio Pastor and Henry B. Harris. None of the managers were in court when the decision was rendered.

In his decision Magistrate Pool says: "I hold that any member of the association, whether present or not at the meeting, who either directly or indirectly carried out the resolve of the meeting on January 12, or threatened to do so, or who prevented the complainant from entering their respective theaters on his presenting himself for admission with good and proper tickets of admission, is liable to the same charge as if present at the meeting and voting." This implicates both Klaw and Erlanger, who were not present at the meeting on January 12.

Magistrate Pool denied the contention that a theater was private property and also denied the legal right of the defendants to exclude the complainant on the ground that the theater is a "quasi public" place, and said:

"I hold a person cannot be denied admission to a theater solely on the ground that he had written criticisms reflecting on one or more members of the Theater Managers' association."

Canada Life Assurance Co.

VOLUNTARILY DECIDED THAT

Policyholders Should Share in the Management

Canada Life Policyholders, wherever they live, can vote by thousands for Directors

THIS IS MOST IMPORTANT

Read the following extracts from an act respecting the Canada Life Assurance Company passed by the Dominion Parliament, 10th July, 1899:

AT ALL MEETINGS at which directors are to be elected, a policyholder whose policies in force amount to three thousand dollars or upwards, exclusive of bonus additions or profits, upon which the full premiums for two years or more have been paid shall be entitled to vote for the election of directors in the manner herein provided.

A POLICYHOLDER being a man of the full age of twenty-one years, whose policies in force amount to ten thousand dollars or upwards, exclusive of bonus additions or profits, and upon which the full premiums for five years or more have been paid, shall be eligible for election by the policyholders as a director of the Company.

THE ELECTION of Directors by policyholders shall be by the majority of votes of those entitled to vote for their election present at the meeting or represented by proxy.

The Canada Life is yearly inspected by the Dominion Government Superintendent of Insurance, who is a non-political, permanent officer.

N. B.—The Canada Life, founded in 1847, holds stronger policy reserves than any other old-established life company on this continent.

MATINEE FOLK INSPECT TRACK

Horsemen Look Over Brunots Improvements, Where Racing Will Begin on Saturday.

SOME FAST HORSES SECURED

Officers and members of the Matinee club of Pittsburgh and Allegheny went down to Brunots island yesterday to look over the improvements at the track, on which the club will have its opening matinee races Saturday next. The private traction car, "Pittsburgh," was used, which left the Duquesne club shortly after noon.

Many had their first ride on the new electric ferry from the Allegheny side to the island. It is a huge float propelled by cable, for which the power is supplied by an electric motor on the island. Two four-in-hands and several hundred people can be transported on a single trip.

The party went directly to the farm house, at the end of the island, where a chicken dinner was awaiting them. After dinner the improvements at the track claimed attention.

It was noticed that the club house and grandstand were in a new coat of paint. The 21 new stalls are near completion and but little remains to be done on the new half-mile track in the infield.

Nothing that has been done in the way of improvement has given more satisfaction than the reclaying of the mile track. It is fit even now, and practically dustless. George E. Turner, president of the Automobile club, who was in the party, was delighted with the track, which is to be used June 28 and 29 next for one of the greatest automobile race meets ever held in this country.

Perhaps the greatest innovation this year is that boats will not be used to convey patrons to the track. They have proven unsatisfactory. Instead trolley cars, dispatched five minutes apart, will be substituted. The trip will be made in 18 minutes by trolley.

Three lines will connect with the ferry on the Allegheny side of the river. The first car will leave Fifth avenue and Market street at 12:45 p. m., and every 15 minutes thereafter. The Rebecca street line will dispatch cars from Liberty street and Sixth avenue every five minutes. The Union line by way of Allegheny city hall will also dispatch cars at intervals of five minutes from the same point.

After the races the private trolley car, "Pittsburgh," will convey club members directly from the track to the Pittsburgh Country club, on Beechwood boulevard.

Great preparations are being made for the initial matinee of the season on Saturday. Several four-in-hands will leave the Duquesne club at 1:30 p. m. bound for the track. A number of ladies will be among the passengers. In fact, society will make much of matinee racing this year. A splendid program of events has been arranged, which will include fully 30 entries.

The club never began a season under such favorable auspices. The outlook is for the grandest sport ever seen in Pittsburgh. Some of the fastest racers in the country have been added to the stables. All the drivers will don colors. The outfit will be new in almost every particular. Already seven new Faber wagons have been bought, some of them as light as 42 pounds. The sport this year will strike a popular chord and bring thousands to the island track. The club regards all as its guests and offers everything free.

Some of the great free-for-all trotters are Dr. Strong, Billy Buck, Redwood, Robin C., Uncle William and Mary D. In this class the pacers are Frank Wilson, Sufreet, Terrace Queen, Lady May, Delpha and McEurie.

Among those who went down yesterday were: President J. G. Bennett, Vice President J. D. Callery, Secretary George F. Fisher, Joseph Gliesenkamp, A. M. Jenkinson, W. Linford Smith, George E. Turner, James Francis Burke, S. A. Pickering, R. H. Boggs, J. H. Moore, J. R. Murphy, Percy E. Donner, John Murphy and J. B. Chapman.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

Only Three Playhouses Will Be Open Next Week—Comedy, Drama and Vaudeville.

Next Monday evening the second and last week of the character comedy, "Checkers," will begin. There is nothing of the suggestive in "Checkers." It is a play which all can see and bring their youngest and their oldest. To sum it all up "Checkers" is worth anybody's trouble in going far to see. The cast selected to interpret "Checkers" is as happy an aggregation of players as has been seen in Pittsburgh in many a day. The characters in the play are numerous and diversified, but they are all in capable hands.

The De Bevier opera company will be a musical feature of the bill at the Grand opera house next week, presenting the last act of Verdi's "Othello." In the company is Myrtle Woodland Holmes, a local girl, who is said to have been highly successful as a prima donna. Dan Quinlan and Keller Mack, the well-known comedians, will contribute their amusing conversational comedy act, "Just Fun." The Five Valdares, cyclists, and Valvero's electric-mechanical novelty, "The Bombardment of Port Arthur," are also on the bill.

Plays whose prominent features are love, heart interest, heroism, comedy, pathos, vice and virtue, always find popular favor. They are sought after by theater-goers who appreciate real merit. That is why "The Convict's Daughter," an orignal melodrama booked at the Bijou next week, has met with such brilliant success.

The great popularity of "Me, Him and I" has been amply demonstrated by the long run in Pittsburgh, now in its fourth and last week. The Duquesne theater has been crowded at every performance.

Convention Opens Today.

The 11th annual convention of the Pittsburgh district of the Epworth leagues will open this afternoon in the Homewood Avenue Methodist Episcopal church and continue this evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening. City evangelization will be the topic, while reports of work among foreigners will be made by city missionaries who have been working among foreigners of 15 different tongues.

Now Ready to Federate.

Delegates from eight commercial organizations, which have adopted the plan suggested for the formation of the "Pittsburgh Commercial Federation," will attend a meeting to be held at 6:30 this evening at the Hotel Henry to carry farther the scheme of organization. At this meeting a permanent body will be formed, officers elected and sub-committees appointed on charter, constitution and by-laws.

Will Observe Anniversary.

Ascension day will be observed today by protestant Episcopal churches. The day marks the 16th anniversary of the Church of the Ascension, Ellsmorth avenue. Special services will be held in the morning, with the Rt. Rev. Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead presiding. An address will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Edwin Barnes Dyer of Baltimore, while the rector, the Rev. Dr. R. W. Grange, will participate in the service.

SOCIETY

MRS. FRANCIS T. F. LOVEJOY was at home informally to her friends yesterday afternoon at "Edgehill," her beautiful residence in Braddock avenue. Mrs. Lovejoy had planned to receive her callers on the lawn, but the weather prevailing, the entire house was opened instead, and through its cool, handsomely-furnished rooms guests wandered during the receiving hours, from 3 until 6 o'clock. The table was placed in the dining room and in its center was a cluster of gracefully arranged cornflowers in pink and white, with just a touch of yellow, matching the exquisitely dainty needle-pointed linens. The tall candelabra at either end of the table were bead fringed. Among the friends of the hostess who relieved each other at the table were Mrs. Ralph Baggaley, Mrs. Loyall Allen Osborne, Mrs. William B. Rodgers, Mrs. Joseph P. Cappeau, Mrs. Augustus Gross MacConnell and Mrs. William Flinn. A number of young girls in dainty summer frocks flitted about assisting informally. They were Miss Martha Heron, Miss Margaret McConway, Miss Josephine Eaton McConway, Miss Ethel Byram, Miss Alberta Harper, Miss Catherine Miller and Miss Helen Thompson.

Burleigh-Ferguson.

The decorations were a feature last evening at the wedding of Miss Minnie M. Burleigh, daughter of Thomas D. Burleigh, and Oliver Graham Ferguson. The Rev. Dr. C. W. Smith, editor of the Christian Advocate, performed the ceremony at the home of the bride's brother, Clarence Burleigh, Forbes street and McKee place, at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Lorna Burleigh, Miss Helen Ruch and little Miss Dorothy Burleigh served as bridesmaids and flower girl, while the ushers, Pierce Ferguson and John Roberts, completed the bridal party. The ceremony was performed in the drawing-room. The bridal table was placed in an upper room and at it were seated the bridal couple, Thomas D. Burleigh, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burleigh, Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Burleigh, Clarence Burleigh, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wood, Pierce Ferguson, Mrs. William J. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Roberts, the Rev. Dr. C. W. Smith and Mrs. N. J. Wier. The bridal gown was fashioned of white liberty satin, with trimmings of real lace. A tulle veil was worn and the only ornament was a diamond pin, Mr. Ferguson's gift. The bridal bouquet was of white roses. The two young bridesmaids wore in white lawn and valenciennes lace, with pink bows and sashes. They carried pink roses. The tiny flower girl was entirely in white, while her flowers, also white, were loosely arranged in a dainty basket. After the wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson left the city on their wedding trip and, returning, will be at home in Oakland avenue after July 1.

Miss Reilly's Wedding Plans.

Owing to a recent death in the bride's family no invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Joanna Marie Reilly and John J. Hart of New York, which is dated for Thursday morning, June 15. Bishop Canevin will solemnize the marriage at 10 o'clock in the Church of the Epiphany, and after the ceremony a breakfast will be given for the immediate relatives at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Reilly, in Darragh street, Oakland. Miss Mary Bertha Reilly will be her sister's only attendant, while Mr. Hart will have a best man, James Byrnes of New York, and four ushers, L. N. Beaudrias and John Mulchay of New York and Eugene S. Reilly and Philip Brentan Reilly, brothers of the bride. After the wedding trip the couple will live in New York.

Engagement Announced at Tea.

At an informal little tea which Miss Anne Houston of Pacific avenue gave yesterday afternoon, announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Helen Sands, a daughter of the Rev. J. D. Sands of Roup street, and Dr. Herbert Perry of Dorne, Tex., the engagement to be followed by their marriage in October. Assisting Miss Houston were her classmates, '02, of the Pennsylvania College for Women. Miss Olive McCutcheon, Miss Elva McCutcheon, Miss Elsie Brown, Miss Margaret McClelland, Miss Florence Dickey, Miss Helen Sherrard, Miss Leonora Mackey and Mrs. L. G. Adams.

The guests were Miss Spencer, Miss Katherine Reed, Miss Helen Macbeth, Miss Jane Swindell, Miss Agnes West, Miss Kirk, Miss Howard and Mrs. William McBride. Mrs. McBride will give a luncheon today for the girls in the bridal party and tomorrow Miss Macbeth entertains in the same way. Miss Curry following it with a dinner for the entire bridal party. After the luncheon yesterday the girls went to Mrs. James Hay Reed's in Amberson avenue, where Mrs. Reed was at home informally to her friends. No invitations for the affair had been issued and those who called were introduced to the out-of-town maids who will be in attendance at Miss Spencer's wedding on Saturday. Mrs. David Aiken, Jr., Mrs. Reed's mother, presided at the tea table.

Bridge Luncheon at Country Club.

Baskets of pink and white sweet peas were the prizes awarded at the bridge-luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. George Taylor Clarkson of Stratford avenue. The guests were entertained at the Country club, where a second affair will be given today for the same hostess. Sixty guests were present yesterday, and among the bride's attendants were Mrs. William D. Hamilton, Mrs. Jarnes Ward Friend, Mrs. Robert Cunningham, Mrs. George Birge, Jr., Mrs. John Porter, Miss Mary McCoy, Mrs. W. D. Rodgers and Mrs. John Fremont Steele. Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson and their little son, Floyd Clarkson, will leave this evening to attend the wedding of Mr. Clarkson's brother, Frank Clarkson, and Miss Fannie Egbert of New York.

Mrs. Thomas W. Bakewell of Shady avenue was hostess at a beautifully appointed luncheon of a dozen covers yesterday, the guest of honor being Miss Hughina of Ottawa, Can., who is visiting Miss Rosbemia Bakewell, a daughter of the hostess. The other guests were Miss Belle Cliff, Miss Jane Burgwin, Miss Beatrice Hawkins, Miss Gertrude Childs, Miss Charlotte Kennedy, Miss Emily Lyon, Miss Rebekah J. Friend, Miss Louise Kay and Miss Katherine Murdoch.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schmitt have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Grace May Schmitt, and Frederick Lawrence McGarrett, to take place at 6 o'clock on the evening of Wednesday, June 14, in St. Peter and Paul Roman Catholic church. A reception will be held at the family home in Black street immediately after the ceremony and "mellow" with the invitations are cards announcing days at home in New York city after August 1.

Guests at "As-You-Like-It."

One of yesterday's smart social affairs was the luncheon which had as its hostess Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., of "As-You-Like-It," on Sewickley Heights. The guests were a dozen friends of the hostess, who played bridge at the close of the luncheon. Mrs. Thaw's sister, Miss Dohrman, and her daughter, Mrs. Henry Lafayette Collins, assisted.

Tea Is Postponed.

The tea which was to have been given yesterday afternoon by Miss Elizabeth Berger of Linden avenue, has been postponed until today. Miss Lucile Porter of New York, Miss Berger's house guest, is to be guest of honor and the affair will be very informal.

Announce Prize Winners Tonight.

Leisser is director. The commencement exercises will be conducted in Dilworth hall and a class of eight young girls will be given certificates, having completed the course, equivalent to the regular high school course, and preparatory to the college. The exercises will include work in French, German and English, and class songs. The graduates are Miss Isabel Harbour, Miss May Craig, Miss Elsie Cress, Miss Caroline Hatley, Miss Louise Foster, Miss Alice Faunce, Miss Hazel Darragh and Miss Irma Bixler. The examination of the work of the pupils in the art department, the old Pittsburgh School of Design for Women, being combined with the art department of the college, was held yesterday morning—and this announcement of the prize winners tonight is awaited with a good deal of interest. A reception in the studios will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening, and the exhibition will be open to the public on Saturday and Monday.

Judge Lindsey May Come to Pittsburgh.

An effort is being made to secure Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, Col., for a lecture in the fall. Negotiations are being made to the end that he speak in Pittsburgh in a few months on the juvenile laws of the country. Judge Lindsey has achieved a national reputation within the past five years by the success with which he has presided over the juvenile court in the city of Denver. This court was established six years ago, and since then 19 states have adopted laws adapted to juvenile offenders as a class, in distinction from the adult offenders of the laws. Twenty-six cities have also established juvenile courts. "Snitching," in the vernacular of the street, means telling on one another, but Judge Lindsey has made "snitching" popular among his boys by encouraging them to tell upon themselves. He puts the boys on their honor, and when they are sentenced to the juvenile home the boys go unaccompanied, each one being given a note and his car fare, and no one traveling on the same car suspects they are sentenced to serve a term at the home.

Complete Arrangements for Outing.

The social committee of the Winodausis club met yesterday afternoon to complete arrangements for the outing in Luna park, which will be held next Tuesday afternoon and evening, June 6. The hut will stand almost opposite the monument and will be constructed after the manner of those which the New Jersey soldiers made and will be as nearly as possible a counterpart of those used 125 years ago. Almost all of the wood will be taken from the land of L. Heston Todd of Port Kennedy, and all of it will come from historic ground.

DR. LORENZ TURNS STATE'S EVIDENCE

Makes a Clean Breast of Postal Contract Frauds on Witness Stand.

DOES NOT SPARE HIMSELF

(By Associated Press to The Gazette.)

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Dr. George E. Lorenz of Toledo, O., who was connected with August W. Machen and Samuel and Dillier B. Groff, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with contracts for furnishing supplies for the postoffice department, today turned state's evidence in the trial of William G. Crawford, who is charged with conspiracy. Machen and Lorenz were indicted jointly with Crawford. The former pleaded guilty and was sentenced to an additional two years in the penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va., and Lorenz was granted a severance for trial. It is generally credited that Lorenz is testifying for the government under an agreement that he shall not be prosecuted under indictments pending against him. He has been sentenced to two years at Moundsville under conviction for conspiring with Machen and the Groffs.

Lorenz did not spare himself in the testimony. He declared that an agreement had been formed by himself, Machen and Crawford to get contracts to furnish letter carrier satchels to the postoffice department, and that they shared in the profits. The contracts were gained by reason of Machen's connection with the supply division of the postoffice department, and were filled by Crawford, who was the general manager for the Postal Device and Lock Company of New York. According to Lorenz, he was the go-between, although there were meetings by the three men.

Formed Subsidiary Company.

The court room was crowded when Lorenz took the stand. For several days it had been rumored that he would tell all he knew of the contracts made with the government, and by so doing would escape further prosecution, although this was denied at the office of the district attorney.

In speaking of the arrangement between the three men, Lorenz called it a subsidiary company. He was asked by Holmes Conrad, special counsel for the government, who were meant by "subsidiary company," and he said, Machen, Crawford and himself. According to Lorenz, he arrived in Washington on the evening of June 3, and met Machen. The next day he called on Crawford and spent most of that day and the next in Crawford's office. The witness said that the evenings of June 4 and 5 were spent in his room at the hotel, where he, Machen and Crawford were in conference. "Who first suggested the division of the profits under the contract obtained by Crawford's company?" asked Mr. Conrad.

"Machen was in my room and said there should be some agreement as to the division of the spoils. He said: 'Crawford may suggest that he receive one-fourth, you one-fourth and that one-half shall come to me. If Ex-does, that will be satisfactory to me.' Machen then said that whatever the arrangement, he and I should divide our shares equally. That is, if three-fourths came to us we should divide it."

Divided the Spoils.

Further questioning brought out the statement from Lorenz that Crawford had made the suggestion of the division when they met the next day and the figures were in accordance with those that had been named by Machen. He said that the three men came to terms according to that agreement.

The witness was examined in relation to correspondence between himself and Crawford. The papers included drafts, letters and other matter. These were examined by Lorenz. The first one of consequence was a letter enclosing a draft for $3,440, which, the witness charged, Crawford sent to Lorenz and asked that it be "Attend to it." On the letter was a memorandum with initials and designations as follows: "A. W." "Geo." and "Bill." After the designations were ten figures, the first being one-half of the amount of the draft, and after the other figures sums one-fourth the amount of the draft.

The government counsel tried to get before the jury the statement that this memorandum meant that A. W. Machen, George Lorenz and William G. Crawford were to receive the amounts named. This was ruled out, but Lorenz did testify that he had made division of the amount of the draft according to the terms of the contract. He said that Crawford's share was sent to him by a New York draft or bill payable to bearer. The draft was then offered. Lorenz testified that three payments were made by Crawford of the money received from the government under the contracts held by the Postal Device and Lock Company, and that Crawford had received his second share of the draft made payable to Lorenz and the latter was then in currency through the American Express Company. The drafts and the express receipt were offered.

Court was adjourned until tomorrow, when the examination of Lorenz will be continued.

THE PIRATES BEAT CARDINALS IN AN EXCITING FINISH

PIRATES NOSE OUT A VICTORY

Clarke's Crew Lands Four Runs and Wins Game When All Hope Seemed Lost.

HOME RUN FOR TOMMY LEACH

If "Mugsy" McGraw, who is accused of calling the Pirates a gang of "quitters," had been over at Exposition park yesterday afternoon, he would have been treated to a sight that would have caused him to eat his words. Any team that can come from the rear in the ninth inning and bring enough runs over the plate to win the game can hardly be accused of being "quitters." That is what the Pirates did, and as the horsemen say, they nosed out a victory over the Cardinals with a 10 to 9 score.

That finish to yesterday's game will live in the memory of the 1,500 spectators who were there to see it for many moons. It was the kind of a wind-up that is commonly called a heart throbs finish, and had the spectators holding their breath while the excitement was on. If there was any one in that crowd of 1,500 who was not up on a chair cheering he was not visible to the naked eye. The grand finish came when Fred Clarke drove the ball to left field for three bases, sending Clymer home with the run that won the game, and the wild animals housed under the canvas on the adjoining lot must have thought they were back in the jungle.

This is the way it happened. The game had gone along in a sort of one-sided fashion, and when the Cardinals' half of the eighth inning was reached it was almost dark enough to be bedtime, and it was thought that the umpire was seriously disposed toward calling the game. At this stage the score was 6 to 1 in the Pirates' favor with Flaherty pitching like a whirlwind. The Cardinals had been able to collect only four hits. It looked all over but the shouting, but baseball is a queer game and a contest is never over until the last man is out.

The first Cardinal up in the eighth was an easy out, and things looked serene enough, but there was trouble to come, and for the next ten minutes the air seemed full of balls and the Pirates. When the smoke cleared away it was found that the Cardinals had piled up four runs, and needed only one to tie the score. This work was kept up in the next innings and when the score had been tied and the bases were filled with runners Manager Clarke called Deacon Phillippe to the rescue and sent Flaherty to the bench. The deacon's effort was not what might be called a gilt edged offering, for Keeley smote the ball to deep left field for three bases and chased three more runs in, making the score 9 to 6 in the visitors' favor.

It looked all off for the Pirates, but Clarke is a never-say-die fellow, and he sent up a shout of encouragement in the ninth, when Clancy led off with a stinging single to middle field. Pitcher Kellum's good inning by striking Wagner and both runners advanced on a wild throw, Clancy scoring. Leach scraped for a base on balls and Carisch sacrificed neatly. Howard was sent to bat for the pitcher and his long fly to right enabled Ritchey to score the second run of the inning. Leach was on third and it was up to Clymer to tie the score. He made good by lining out a timely double. By this time the crowd was howling and there was a prolonged roar when Clarke drove the ball to left for three bases, scoring Clymer with the run that won the game.

The Cardinals started off with Kellum in the pitchers' box, but he only lasted four innings and then gave way to Egan. During Kellum's term of duty the Pirates made six runs and secured seven hits. Bridwell's single was the first home run of the season on the local grounds, which was made by Leach and which brings him all kinds of prizes. His hit was a terrific drive almost to the flagpole and it sent Ritchey in ahead of him. That hit was one of four hits in the fourth inning, the others being a single by Carisch, a two-bagger by Ritchey and a three-bagger by Warner.

Up until the eighth inning Flaherty pitched air-tight ball to the accompaniment of music from the brass band in the circus, which ground out "A Bit o' Blarney" with great regularity. The band, however, had to cease play when the show was over, and that seemed the undoing of Patsy, for after that his curves had no terrors for the Cardinal batsmen. One of the features of the game was the great batting of Ritchey, who out of five times up had four hits and one base on balls, a clean record for the afternoon. The score:

ON THE TIGERS' FIELD.

Army and Navy Football Game Will Be Played This Season.

WEST POINT, May 31.—The West Point-Annapolis football game will be played this year on Princeton field, December 2, instead of on Franklin field, Philadelphia, as heretofore. The Gerard Swope Bill to let the games played by the national academies have become so great that more seats are necessary for the Army and Navy than Pennsylvania with the many proper demands of her subscribers and supporters could supply with the limited capacity of Franklin field.

The relations between Pennsylvania and the academies are as cordial as ever.

THE BRADDOCK TEAM AGAIN BEATS HOMESTEAD

Game Is Played on Muddy Field. Squeeze Play Is Worked by Winner.

Braddock won another game from Homestead at Steel Works park yesterday, 4 to 3. The game was a pretty one to witness, but the field was slow on account of the heavy rain of the morning which made the playing grounds muddy. Brockmiller pitched a nice game for Braddock, letting the opposing team down with five hits. Braddock connected safely with the pitching of Johnson nine times, and most of the hits came when it meant runs.

Homestead made one in the second inning on a double by Mathay and another by Kinney, who tried to stretch it to a triple and was out at third. In the third another was added on a base on balls by Sellers and a double by Doherty. Their last run was made in the sixth inning, when Doherty was hit by a pitched ball and came home on a double by Mathay, his second of the game.

Braddock made their first run in the second inning. Unroe, the first man up, drove out a pretty double and came home on a single by Sweeney. In the sixth inning two more were added, for Keller went out to Morgan and Porter placed a single over second base. He came home on a pretty triple by Unroe along the third base line. The squeeze play was resorted to at this stage of the game, with Bailey batting, and R. worked. Bailey hurting one past the pitcher. The winning run was made in the seventh inning. Sweeney singled, was sacrificed to second by P. Sweeney and came home on a single by Edmundson. Braddock plays Titusville today at Braddock. Score:

CICERO WINS VICTORY.

American Jockey Rides Lord Rosebery's Horse to Victory.

LONDON, May 31.—Lord Rosebery's Cicero today won the Derby stakes of 6,500 sovereigns for entire colts and fillies foaled in 1902, about a mile and a half. M. Blanc's Jardy was second and Chevalier Ginistrelli's Signorino was third.

Nine horses started. The winner was ridden by Maher, the only American jockey in the race. Jardy led to the mile post and then gave way to Silver Streak. When fairly in line for home however, Cicero came to the front followed by Jardy. In an exciting finish Maher landed the unbeaten Cicero a winner, giving Lord Rosebery his third Derby and bringing himself the first American to achieve the feat of winning this classic race twice.

STATE'S FINE RECEPTION.

Baseball Team Gets Welcome for Defeating Tigers.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 31.—(Special.)—One of the biggest demonstrations which State has ever tendered any of her athletic teams occurred here this morning. Upon the return of the victorious varsity nine from Princeton the players' bus was captured and the varsity men carried across the campus upon the shoulders of the students and forced to speak from corridor of the Princeton game from the steps of Old Main.

Pitcher McIlveen is the popular idol. It will be remembered that he also defeated Princeton last year by a score of 8 to 1. Last evening the students had a great celebration and built a huge bonfire in which was consumed the effigy of a large tiger.

GOING BACK TO SCHOOL AFTER A LONG RECESS

All is in Readiness for the Reunion of Old First Ward Scholars.

The executive committee of the First ward school reunion yesterday afternoon arranged the exercises for next Tuesday. The hours will be from 8 to 10 p. m. and the exercises, which will be very brief, will begin at 8:30 o'clock in the school hall. W. J. Diehl, chairman of the association, will open the meeting. H. W. Schuett, an old student and now president of the local school board, will make the address of welcome, and the reply will come from George N. Monro, Esq., for many years principal of the school, and who was at its head when the school reached its largest proportions. A historical sketch will be read by Prof. M. I. McMahon, the principal, and there will be several short talks of a reminiscent nature by former teachers and pupils. The music will be furnished by the string orchestra of the Second Brigade band.

The committee on entertainment has arranged to have the refreshments served in the First avenue yard, which will be covered with canvas. The Second Brigade band will be stationed in the Short street yard, and the orchestra on the second floor landing. "Paddy Slade's" taffy booth will be given a place in the Second avenue yard, and the relic booth will be set up in the same place. The scholars are asked to bring in relics in their possession on the day of the reunion.

The printing committee decided to print the historical sketch prepared by Prof. McMahon with the names of all those who attend the reunion and distribute them later as a souvenir.

Meetings of all the sub-committees will be held at the school house at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

TWO BIG SALES IN HILL WARDS

Wylie Avenue Corner Brings $84,000—Webster Avenue Sale of $37,000.

MAY'S BIG REALTY RECORD

Two big sales of property in the hill district yesterday relieved the market from what would otherwise have been a decided lull and gave further evidence that investors are looking after well located properties in the hill wards. The larger deal was the sale of the former Smith block at the southeast corner of Wylie avenue and Federal street, for $84,000. No intimation of the name of the buyer was given out, but it is known that the papers in the deal are signed. In 1903 this property was bought by S. Abel and others for $75,000, which was then considered a record-breaking price for Wylie avenue holdings. It is one of the best buildings in the avenue, being a three-story brick structure with three large storerooms on the first floor and flats on the second and third floors. The lot measures 61x114 feet, making the rate of $1,377 a front foot for the Wylie avenue frontage, or $12.82 a square foot.

The other hill sale was made by the Aronson-Friedman company some two weeks ago and closed finally yesterday. The property is known as the George W. Rankin holdings at the southwest corner of Webster avenue and Granville street and brought $37,000. It consists of 174 feet facing in Webster avenue and extends back 85 feet along Granville street to Shoen street. The frontage is improved with 12 modern brick houses of from six to 11 rooms each, which rent for $3,500 a year. Attorney Harry M. Steen and William Cohen, the contractor, bought the property and have since been offered $40,000 for their holdings.

Best May Since 1900.

The record of real estate dealings in May as shown by the transfers registered at the Pittsburg city hall is the best of any May since 1900, that year having a total of over $7,000,000. This month's total reached $6,286,021, nearly double the amount of dealing of any other month this year. The activity was general over the city, particularly in the downtown district, where a number of large transactions were closed and the deeds registered. If the deals made during May are all registered in June that month should be a record breaker, for there have been more big deals settled for in the last month downtown than during any similar period for two years. The total of May shows an unusually large amount of dealing in the hill and hump districts and in the wards that are most affected by the new tunnel route. Small properties on Mt. Washington and Duquesne Heights have been selling with a frequency that is good evidence of the popularity the district is attaining as a residence center. It will be noticed in the table given below, which gives the realty records of every May since 1900, that in the years 1901, 1902 and 1903 the totals were nearly alike, while 1904 shows a decline. This year's trading, therefore, is most encouraging, as it marks an upward tendency in the market.

Year.	No. of Sales.	Amount
1905	590	$6,286,021
1904	468	3,854,900
1903	711	4,919,800
1902	550	4,200,900
1901	546	4,558,400
1900	410	7,002,900

The total for April of this year was 469 deeds, amounting to $3,850,000, and for March 374 deeds, totaling $3,271,200.

Formal Deal Announced.

The Lawton Real Estate Company has secured title from the Mortgage Banking Company to the property at the southeast corner of Second avenue and Cherry alley for $165,000. The deal is merely a formal one, as the two companies have been affiliated since their formation, and this transfer was made some months ago. The property measures 60x75 feet and is improved with a five-story brick printing plant on 40 feet of the corner and a brick store on the remaining 20 feet. Deals are now pending for both these properties.

H. J. Heinz has added to his Allegheny holdings by the purchase of the well-known Holstein property at the northwest corner of Sycamore and South Canal streets for $10,000. The lot is 67x113 feet and is improved with the old Holstein homestead, a large brick house which for years was the property of the Pittsburgh Physicians' Supply Company for manufacturing medicines. Mr. Heinz owns the property on the corner diagonally opposite, and most of the frontage 200 feet deep on the east side of Sycamore street, between the West Penn railroad and the tracks of the Pittsburg & Western, besides considerable frontage on the west side of the same street. It is rumored that these holdings are to be used for another big plant, but other scattering purchases of Mr. Heinz would seem to show that he was buying merely for investment.

Through the Aronson-Friedman Company Jacob Tannenbaum yesterday sold to Ira Appson a brick house on 20x90 feet at 1618 Center avenue for $6,600. The property is near Miller street, and extends back to Clark street. The buyer expects to improve the rear of the lot with a brick building. The same brokers sold the M. E. Coyle holdings in Congress street to Isadore Goldstein for $6,000. The lot is 20x60 feet and has on it a large brick house.

Buyers' Identity Concealed.

Curiosity as to who is buying so many properties in the First and Fourth wards of Allegheny is increasing daily, the more so as it is reported on very good authority that neither the Wabash nor its agents are securing any lots in these wards. Within two weeks one downtown firm in Pittsburgh has purchased over a dozen properties in the Fourth ward, most of them being small lots. Although the deeds have been delivered in most of these cases, not one of them has been announced, and the company is guarding jealously the identity of the real buyers. A representative of one of the largest firms in Fourth avenue has taken title to seven or eight properties in the First ward since May 15. These lots, as well as those bought in the Fourth ward, are well hunched and indicate that the purchaser is securing them for some well defined purpose. There are a half dozen deals of at least $10,000 each for Allegheny property that will be closed within a week, if the decision on the Greater Pittsburgh Bill is favorable.

Architects Bleger & Currier have awarded the contract to J. Van Orman for the four-room school house which will be built at Bradford City.

Architects Allison & Allison are taking estimates on a $7,000 residence for C. W. Wood in Hampton avenue, East End.

Curious Deed Unearthed.

A curiosity has appeared in the city register's office in the form of a deed bearing the date of 1872. It conveyed from David L. Rees to John H. Hollingshead 50x139 feet in the Washington Turnpike road in Temperanceville, now the Thirty-sixth ward, for $1,800. The deed specifies that the property formerly belonged to John B. Walton and John Alexander and was part of the tract known as "Elliott's Delight." The sale was made subject to a perpetual ground rent of $25.50 a year.

East End: George E. Kelly sold for Dr. C. L. Kemmery to F. S. Jaeger a brick house at the northwest corner of Hampton avenue and Portland place, Nineteenth ward, for $6,500. The purchase was made for a home.

Allegheny: Adam Hoffman of the Manchester Savings Bank and Hrozt Company sold for Wilson Miller, executor of the estate of P. H. Miller of Allegheny, to Karl Reider, an eight-room brick house on 72x122 feet, at Irwin and Terrace avenues, Second ward, Allegheny, for $5,000.

Allegheny: W. F. Weitershausen sold for the Lucchesini heirs to Jacob Ehman a brick house on 22x75 feet, at 723 Liberty street, Fourth ward, Allegheny, for $1,500.

Overhill street: The Aronson Realty Company sold to Morris Ruben 6 and 8 Overhill street, Eleventh ward, four houses on 40x100 feet, for $5,200.

Architect D. A. Crane has awarded the contract for the H. M. Irons residence to George Ridley of McDonald.

Shetland avenue—E. E. Kehew sold to Charles Kenne an improved lot, 28x120, on the east side of Shetland avenue, Twenty-first ward, for $5,000.

Steuben street—J. P. Koerbe sold to John W. Voigel an improved lot, 11x42 feet, in Steuben street, Thirty-sixth ward, for $2,000.

The Three Rivers.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., May 31.—At 6 p. m. today the Ohio river at Cincinnati was 15.8 feet and falling. Today's departures of packets from the port of Cincinnati were: Greenwood, Pomeroy, Courier, Maysville; City of Cincinnati, Louisville. The temporary rise resulting from the heavy rains of Tuesday passed off today and the river began to fall again. A sharp rise was experienced in the local harbor, which kept the river up for several hours. There will not be another rise in the river until there is another rainfall from headwaters. The report to the local weather bureau from Falmouth, Ky., today stated that .78 of an inch of rain had fallen there and that the river had reached a 2.8 stage. This is considerable water for that part of the Licking river, and a runout of that stream is expected Thursday. All of the local streams were running out during Tuesday night on account of the rains. No damage is reported from the water. The Memphis and Vicksburg packet Lee will arrive here Thursday from the lower rivers with one of the best cargoes of the season. She will return on Saturday. The Tom Dodsworth passed up today for Pittsburgh with a miscellaneous tow. She left a model barge of molasses here and took the remainder above. The Sprague hit the bank at Randolph and sunk three loaded coal boats out of her tow of 56 coal boats, five barges and four fuel flats. Clear and warmer.

LOUISVILLE—River rising. In canal, 7 feet; on falls, 4.8 feet; below locks, 12 feet. Cloudy and cool.

MORGANTOWN—River 6 feet and stationary. Rainy.

STEUBENVILLE—River 4 feet 7 inches and falling. Cloudy and warm.

GALLIPOLIS—River 8 feet and rising. Partly cloudy and pleasant.

LOW WATER CAUSES TIE-UP.

Low water has forced the several coal companies to entirely suspend the movements of their boats below Davis Island dam. All along the river boats are tied up awaiting deeper water to get into port.

Maj. W. L. Sibert has submitted plans to the secretary of war for the extension of the Pittsburgh harbor lines from Elizabeth to Rock No. 4. As soon as the plans receive the signature of the secretary they will be the law of the river and all encroachments on the river banks must cease.

The Rose Hite has made her last trip of the season. The side wheeler, I. C. Woodward, will make the Morgantown run in her place today.

Capt. Arthur Morse, assistant master of transportation for the river coal company, has returned from Louisville.

The Ben Hur will be the Parkersburg boat in today.

The Queen City got in yesterday a couple of hours late owing to low water between here and Logstown. She went out on time and had heavy trips both ways.

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 8 o'clock last night was 4.1 feet and the river was stationary.

LEGAL NOTICES.

S. W. CUNNINGHAM, Attorney-at-Law, St. Nicholas building, Pittsburgh, Pa. In the court of common pleas No. 2, of Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, No. 450, July term, 1905. In re petition of The Aspinwall-Delafield Company and of Mary C. Delafield, for satisfaction of mortgage given by James Semple to James Bird. Notice is hereby given as follows: At the above number and term, on May 20, 1905, the petition of said petitioners was presented to court, setting forth that there appears of record in the recorder's office of said Allegheny county, in Deed Book Vol. 10, page 27, a certain mortgage given by James Semple to James Bird, bearing date Nov. 4, 1795, to secure the payment of 817 pounds 12 shillings and 7 pence, payable in seven equal annual installments, commencing November 1, 1796, and that said moneys thereby were charged upon the following described lands, namely, those four certain tracts of land situate on the northwest side of the Allegheny river, in the county of Westmoreland (now in the township of O'Hara, in the county of Allegheny, Pennsylvania, called depreciation lands, which tracts are marked in the plan of District No. 4 with the following numbers, to-wit: No. 3, containing 268 acres 40 perches and allowance; No. 8, containing 271 acres 17 perches and allowance; No. 16, containing 240 acres 65 perches and allowance; and No. 19, containing 236 acres 135 perches and allowance. In the margin of the record of said mortgage appears a receipt for 1258 pounds 12 shillings and 2 pence on account of said mortgage debt, but no sufficient release, acquittance or acknowledgment of payment is of record in said Allegheny county. Said petitioners are the owners in severalty of said tract No. 8, except a strip of land about 25 feet wide of the Western Pennsylvania Railroad Company—that part thereof owned by said Mrs. Delafield—being subject to certain easements, and said Mary C. Delafield is the owner of said tract No. 19. A period of much more than 21 years has elapsed after the whole of the principal of said mortgage encumbrance became payable, and no payment of principal or interest has been made on account of the same within said period of 21 years, by the persons liable so far as can be ascertained by their predecessors in title, and no claim has been made within said period for the payment of said mortgage debt, or any part thereof or any interest thereon. No assignment of said mortgage appears of record, or is known to petitioners, and petitioners do not know of any person entitled in said mortgage except the mortgagee therein, James Bird, whose place of residence, if he is still living, is unknown to petitioners. And said petitioners prayed that the sheriff should be directed to give notice to the parties in interest, requiring them to appear and answer said petition, and that in the event of the non-appearance of any persons duly notified to attend, the court should decree that the land of said petitioners should be released and discharged from the said mortgage encumbrance, and from the lien and the payment thereof. Whereupon the court directed the sheriff to give notice of the matters set forth in said petition to the parties interested, and required them to appear as prayed. Now, therefore, I, James W. Dickson, sheriff of Allegheny county, in compliance with the order of court, do hereby give notice to all parties interested in said mortgage, and to all whom it may concern, of the matters set forth above and in said petition, and do further notify and require them to appear in said court on the first Monday of July next (then) to answer said petition, and to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be made releasing and discharging the said land of petitioners from the lien of said mortgage and the payment thereof, and directing that said mortgage should be satisfied of record, and that all settlement thereon should be forever barred. James W. Dickson, sheriff.

COURT of common pleas No. 2, Allegheny county, state of Pennsylvania. Notice is hereby given that an application will be made said court at No. 350, July term, 1905, on Saturday, the 24th day of June, 1905, at 10 o'clock a. m., by L. W. Wilson, John J. Ballard, C. A. McNames, E. F. Cain, J. E. Gilchrist, F. A. Cain and W. A. Eberle under the act of assembly entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved April 29, 1874, and the supplements thereto, for the charter of an intended corporation to be called The Logan Company, the character and object whereof is purchasing, manufacturing and selling, or either, of gaskets, tin, brass, pieces, marble, chandeliers, lamps, gas and electric fittings, fixtures and supplies and all the usual sundries connected therewith, as well as the assembling, fitting, setting or construction pertaining or incident thereto, and for these purposes to have, possess and enjoy all the rights, benefits and privileges of the said act of Assembly and its supplements. W. T. Tredway, solicitor.

STOCKS FAIRLY ACTIVE, PRICES CLOSING STRONG

Union Pacific, Reading and Copper Led the Advance. Call Loans Reached 4 Per Cent—Coal and Pittsburgh Gas Strong

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was dull and only steady until the last hour, when the tone became strong and prices closed at the highest of the day. During the morning session the sales reached only 328,000 shares, but the total for the day approximated 740,000 shares.

London prices for American securities were only fractionally changed, London's advance being checked by selling in that market by Paris. French rentes closed 7½ centimes lower for the day. Consols were steady, and in the New York market the new Japanese 4½s advanced to 90¾. The operations of foreigners in the New York market were not much of a factor, but sales predominated, and these were largely of United States Steel preferred.

The strongest stocks in the market were Reading and Union Pacific, which closed at practically the top. Union Pacific after opening at 122½, sagged to 121¾, but late in the afternoon reached 124¼. Reading opened at 90½, reacted to 90¼, and advanced to 94¼. In both cases the movement was accompanied by rumors of increased dividends, and from London came an undefined report of a bonus of new Union Pacific preferred which would equal 20 per cent on the common, the justification of the bonus being, it was alleged, the profits made by the company out of the disposal of its holdings of Northern Securities. The remainder of the railroad list was firm and closed at net gains, with the exception of Ontario & Western, which closed ⅝ per cent lower for the day.

Amalgamated Copper was one of the strongest of the industrials and advanced to 82, closing with a net gain of 1 per cent. The Steel stocks were rather heavy, but closed ¼ per cent higher for both the common and preferred. American Smelting closed 1 per cent higher, and Sugar recovered part of its dividend.

The reports of several railroads for the month of April helped along the advance during the afternoon, but the real basis for the strength was thought to be covering of shorts. This was the main cause assigned for the 1 per cent net advance in Metropolitan Street Railway and Brooklyn Rapid Transit. Concerning the latter it was said that the company had paid its back taxes due under the recent decision of the United States supreme court.

The rise in call loan rates to 4 per cent during the afternoon was ascribed to the calling of loans and the final preparations being made for payments on sundry syndicate transactions, and for end of the month settlements. The final quotations for call loans were 1½ bid, 2½ asked.

The closing up of the May deal in wheat and corn was attended by some excitement and wide fluctuations in prices. May wheat opened unchanged at 90, advanced to $1.08¾, and closed at $1.01. The July option, on the other hand, closed weak and lower, the decline in Liverpool cables and the improvement in crop conditions being the chief factor and more than neutralizing Bradstreet's figures showing a decrease in the world's visible supply of wheat of 5,605,000 bushels during the past week. May corn jumped from 52 to 60 cents, and closed at the highest, while the July option closed only fractionally higher. There was another violent advance in cotton, and prices closed near the best.

Out of total sales on the Pittsburgh stock exchange of 13,155 shares, 10,350 shares consisted of Ohio Tonopah, which sold at prices ranging from 37 to 40 cents, the final sale at 39 cents representing a gain for the day of 2 cents. Considering the dullness in the remainder of the list the tone of the market was strong. Pittsburgh Oil and Gas scored the largest advance, selling up to 68 for a small lot, a gain of 4½ per cent, and closing at 67¾ bid. Pittsburgh Coal was also strong, the common advancing to 19½ bid, and the preferred selling at 77, the latter a net gain of 1 per cent. Crucible Steel common sold to the extent of 700 shares at 10½@10¾, and the preferred closed at 92 bid. United States Steel issues were extremely dull, but closed firm. Westinghouse Electric sold in small lots at 82½@83, and closed at 83⅜ bid. Independent Brewing issues were lower at 16 for the common and 40 for the preferred. Manufacturers Light and Heat rallied to 86, and a small lot of Philadelphia Company sold at 48, a loss of ½ point. Tonopah Extension was 15 cents a share lower at $4.75. Pittsburgh, McKeesport Connellsville 6s advanced ¼ per cent to 104 on sales of $17,000.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The most important "news" of the day, and which Wall street apparently construed as bullish, was the message credited to Gen. Linevitch in which he informed the czar that his troops were in open revolt and that it would be impossible to continue the war under the circumstances. This alleged message was made public long after the foreign markets had closed, and an hour before the close in New York. The largest advance of the day in the latter market occurred after the publication of this news. The only theory upon which it could be regarded as bullish was that the conditions reported would force a speedy ending of the war. It will remain to be seen today how the Paris and Berlin markets take this news, provided it is verified. A revolt in the Manchurian army might be the forerunner of a revolution in the empire, which seemed to be as imminent last January, when Russian citizens were massacred on their way to present a petition to the czar. Thus far the continental markets, where the bulk of Russian securities are held, have withstood the succession of shocks in this war in a remarkable manner.

International policies seemed to have played a small part in the market, and the belief that an early peace was to be forthcoming was not so distinct a factor as on Monday. Japanese bonds in the New York market continued to overshadow all others in prominence, but moved with some irregularity. Realizing in them was in evidence after the opening and the first series of sales were carried to a sharp fractional loss, but they recovered in company with the rest of the market.

Evidence of pressure against the United States Steel stocks was a factor in turning prices downwards during the morning. Reports were current that practically all existing pools and agreements to maintain prices in the trade were in course of dissolution, following the example of the steel rail pool. Fears were entertained that this would serve to add to the difficulties of keeping up prices and would increase the pressure to dispose of stocks. With the possible exception of the crop outlook there is no one subject to which so much importance is attached as the course to be taken by the iron and steel trade. A demonstration that the present buying in the trade is but temporary would have the effect of readjusting much of the doubts now reflected in the stock market.

No definite news was forthcoming to explain the strength of Reading, but there were rumors alleging an intended increase in the dividend on the Central Railroad of New Jersey. From these inferences were drawn of a more liberal dividend policy on the part of Reading itself which controls the Central of New Jersey, and this served to arouse hopes of coming benefits also for Baltimore & Ohio, Norfolk & Western and Chesapeake & Ohio stocks.

One effect pointed out from the wiping out of the Russian naval force is the opening of the way for free transport of Japanese supplies from this country. It is expected that this may facilitate the outlay in this country of some part of the proceeds of the Japanese loan still on deposit in New York.

Pittsburgh bank exchanges for May, 1905, exceeded $225,000,000, the largest for any corresponding month in the history of the local clearing house. Compared with May, 1904, the increase of $50,500,000, and compared with the previous high total for the month, the increase is $10,300,000. The total for the five months of 1905 is $1,041,019,814, an increase of $210,000,000 over the corresponding five months of last year. The five months' total has been exceeded but once, and that was in 1903, when dealings on the stock exchange were active and speculation generally helped to swell the figures.

In New York Pittsburgh Coal common and preferred each closed 1¾ per cent higher than on Monday.

The total value of exports of iron and steel in April were $13,076,918, as against $10,588,551 in April, 1904. This is an increase of $2,488,824 over last year, or more than 25 per cent. In the 10 months ending with April the showing as to exports this fiscal year compares equally well, the total for this year being $110,788,670, as against $89,107,854 the first 10 months of 1904 and $79,839,402 in the first 10 months of 1903.

The eleventh annual convention of the Pennsylvania Bankers' association will be held in Wilkesbarre on June 15 and 16. The first day's session will be occupied with the annual address of the president, W. H. Peck, and the reports of the secretary, treasurer, regular and special committees. On Friday morning, June 16, the chairmen of the eight groups composing the association will make reports of business conditions in their respective groups. Addresses will be made by Clark Williams, vice president of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company of New York on "Good Will in Banking," and by John H. Connelian, title officer of the Equitable Trust Company of Philadelphia, on "The Expansion of the Trust Company." In the afternoon addresses will be made by Joseph French Johnson, Ph. D., dean of the New York University School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance, on "The Influence of the Gold Supply on Price, Rate of Interest and Bank Deposits," and by George M. Coffin, vice president of the Phoenix National bank of New York, on "Our National Banking System." On Friday evening a banquet will be tendered to the delegates and ladies by the associated banks of Wilkesbarre.

The report of the Columbus and Hocking Coal and Iron Company for the year ended March 31, 1905, shows a deficit of $50,500, compared with a surplus of $72,908 for the preceding year.

Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh net earnings for April increased $60,323.

Net earnings of Erie for April were $965,080, a decrease of $302,340.

The net income of the United States Realty and Improvement Company for the 10 months ending April 30, 1905, was $1,704,825, compared with $1,237,736 for the 11 months ending May 31, 1904.

For the year ended April 30 last the net earnings of Pacific Mail increased $730,220.

The Rock Island system reports for April net earnings of $458,028, an increase of $188,586, and from July 1 to April 30, $9,780,428, a decrease of $716,056.

The Southern Railway company reports for April net earnings of $786,147, an increase of $105,128. Ten months, $11,594,784, an increase of $856,656.

The governor of New York has signed one of the banking law amendment bills. This law allows sale of bank stocks at private sale without the published notice now required, provided that before making the private sale an offer in writing to purchase such stock shall first be obtained, and a copy thereof served upon the owner of record of the stock sought to be sold. If after service of such offer such owner shall refuse or neglect to pay the assessment due, the directors may sell the stock to the person making the offer, or to any others making a better offer. The new law provides, however, that such stock cannot be sold for less than the valuation fixed by the superintendent of the banking department in his determination, this proceeding occurring to make good impairment of capital stock.

There has been considerable discussion as to whether United States Steel stocks sold in Pittsburgh would be subject to the New York state transfer tax of $2 per 100 shares. An officer of the steel corporation in reply to a telegram forwarded by C. A. Painter, president of the Pittsburgh exchange, states that the payment of this tax will be avoided on stock sold here, as transfers will be made in Jersey City. The company acts as its own transfer agent and certainly expects to make transfers through its Jersey City office. The tax law goes into effect on Friday, and the seller will probably have to pay the tax, and it is possible that some of the pools have been unloading their holdings to avoid the payment of $2 per 100 shares. The New York exchange has ruled that the customers and not the brokers must pay the tax.

The governing committee of the New York stock exchange rules that any member of the exchange who assumes or bears for his own account or relieves his principal from any part of the stamp tax is guilty of a violation of the constitution relating to commissions. This means that customers must pay the tax of $2 per 100 shares imposed by the new law which goes into effect Friday. The state comptroller has notified the exchange that no stamps will be required upon a sales ticket accompanying a delivery of stock on June 2 or thereafter for a sale made on June 1 or prior thereto.

Most of the New York underwriters of recent bond issues are bewailing the defiance of the underwriting industry. Those who participated in ventures of the early winter in Japanese 6s, Rock Island refunding in, Norfolk & Western divisional liens and other issues that came out at prices points below present quotations, today take pleasure in the fact that in the present condition of the bond market it is difficult to scalp out a point or so of profit as it was to gather in $30 or $40 per bond in early weeks of the winter. The Pennsylvania issues and the Washington Terminal issue in the very recent past are pointed to as illustrations.

Banks and the Treasury.

NEW YORK, May 31.—(Special.)—In redemption of checks drawn on depositions of gold at the San Francisco and Seattle assay offices, today's official records show that the subtreasury paid out Monday $70,672. FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH

Bank exchanges the largest for any month of May on record.

Total for the month exceeded $225,000,000, an increase of $59,500,000 over May last year.

Mining shares the only active stock in the local market.

Pittsburgh Coal was higher at 19½ bid for the common and 77 for the preferred.

Pittsburgh Oil and Gas made a strong rally, touching 68.

IN WALL STREET

Stocks rallied late in the day and closed strong at the best prices.

Reading and Union Pacific were the strongest of the railroad list.

United States Steel heavy in the early dealings, but rallied and closed firm.

Sales included 746,500 shares stock and $5,630,000 bonds.

Call loan rates advanced to 4%, but closed offered at 2½%.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS IN MAY, 1905.

The course of values on the stock exchange throughout almost the entire month of May was downward, and dealings contracted until the smallest sales for any day of the year were recorded. One of the influences on the market was the uncertainty regarding the situation in the far east, which continued until the last week in the month, when the overwhelming defeat of the Russian fleet caused a sharp rise in Japanese bonds and English consols, and imparted a stronger tone to American stocks. Another influence was the insistence upon railroad rate regulation by the government, and the fear aroused through the announcement of the government's policy in connection with purchases for the Panama canal that the tariff question might be opened at the next session of congress. Still another influence was the appearance of a pall in the iron market. The principal cause of the reaction and liquidation, however, was the previous over-speculation, the failure of the many predicted railroad deals to materialize, and the supply of the normal investment demand by the issue of new securities. The money market remained easy, and a moderate recovery took place in stock market values during the closing days of the month.

In Pittsburgh trading was extremely dull and prices followed the course marked out by Wall street. The listing of the stocks of the Pittsburgh Coal Company on the New York stock exchange stimulated some activity, and prices rallied. Initial dividends were declared of 1% per cent on Independent Brewing preferred and of 3 per cent on Tonopah Extension Mining. In the regular industrial list nine stocks closed higher, 22 closed lower and two remained unchanged. In the banking department prices were as a rule lower and the demand light. Local bank clearings were the largest for any May on record. The following is a summary of the transactions on the Pittsburgh stock exchange for the month.

SEA FIGHT DOES NOT ENTHUSE THE MARKET

Traders Say Signing of Peace Treaty Will Not Help Crops or Affect Rate Legislation.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 1.—The Herald this (Thursday) morning says:

Stocks rallied strongly yesterday, but dealings were professional and the interest was poorly distributed. Great as is the public everywhere aroused by the Japanese victory over the Russian fleet, the great battle is now recognized to have had but little influence on the stock market. Japanese bonds always excepted.

Wall street traders yesterday frankly admitted that the annihilation of the Russian naval force made for peace, and they finally admitted peace to be wholly desirable, but they pointed out that a treaty of peace would not determine our own commerce, the outcome of tariff agitation or the efforts of federal control over railway rates. Moreover, the internal which may intervene before peace is finally declared, they point out, might be a long one and fraught with troubles. In consequence the great victory was not attended with market enthusiasm.

Aside from various reports bearing upon the results of the battle in the Korean straits, there was little news of a definite character. The crop reports of the day were not satisfactory, telling of frosts in the spring wheat district and damp weather in the corn and winter districts, delaying growth, and of floods and reduced acreage in the cotton belt. Grain commodities were highly irregular, but as a rule reflected the unfavorable crop and weather reports of the day.

In industrial quarters there was confirmation of the dullness prevailing in the iron and steel industry. A sharp advance in the call money rate, which ran up from 2½ to 4 per cent, checked the market's advance in the late trading, speculative sentiment was much mixed.

AFTER 30 DAYS' VACATION.

Penalized Liquor Dealers Secure Licenses for Eleven Months.

Licenses to sell liquor were taken out yesterday by 18 applicants who had been granted with a 30-day penalty clause. They were as follows:

Retail—Charles Brosky, 2124 Penn avenue; Anthony Degnedo, 2017 Penn avenue; V. S. Anderson, 2017 Penn avenue; Jerry and John Clark, 1801 Beaver avenue; Allegheny; P. Cornacchia, 2017 Butler street, Allegheny; Thomas Kreiner, Duquesne; William Schuetz, East Pittsburgh; Gustav Quetel, Homestead; Angelo Shakespeare, Millvale; Isaac Greenberg, Mc-Kees Rocks; Barbara Kastelic, McKees Rocks; Mary A. Rowan, Baldwin township; Thomas Rimmer, Hampton township.

Leave for Target Practice.

Sixty-five privates and two lieutenants who have been stationed in the Allegheny arsenal left yesterday morning for Fort Niagara to engage in one month's target practice. During their absence Company I, Twenty-third infantry, will occupy the arsenal.

DOZEN FURNACES ARE CLOSED DOWN

Production of Pig Iron Is Being Restricted Closely to the Demand.

BILLET RUMOR DISREGARDED

The scarcity of new business and the closing down of furnaces continue the leading feature of the pig iron business, and the rumors as to causes form one of the main subjects of gossip concerning the situation. Leading producers say that there need be little speculation as to causes. The larger consumers have already bought well ahead. The United States Steel Corporation alone seems to have stopped a certain degree of overstocking. By the failure in May it has been able to keep its production and supply just about equal to its consumption. With the natural slackening of demand in the summer already felt it is in a position to put its furnaces out of blast where such a policy is demanded by the condition of the individual stacks. At the same time it is not believed that the corporation will be able to carry out its summer program without making purchases of some merchant tonnage.

So far as announced there are eight corporations and four independent blast furnaces not operating at present. These are one Newburg, one Iroquois, two Youngstown (O.) plants, one Carrie, two Edgar Thomson and one Duquesne, all belonging to the corporation, and one Niagara (N. Y.), Hanna & Co.'s one Punxsutawney (Rogers, Brown & Co.), one Wheeling Iron and Steel, and the Mary Lee, Graceville, O., Jewellville, O. (Ohio Iron and Steel Company).

In each case it is said the furnace had been overworked and it was necessary as an operating condition that the stack should be relined. At the same time the easing of the market has made it possible for the independents to stop and the Steel Corporation has been affected in a somewhat similar manner.

The rumor was started yesterday that a serious price difficulty has been precipitated in the billet association by action of the Republic Iron and Steel Company. This report did not find much backing. It is pointed out that the association price for Bessemer and open-hearth billets, 4x4 in, is $25 00 or $26 00 in the market, while the association price is but $21 00. It seems apparent that with so extensive a discrepancy between the association and the actual market prices it would be impossible for any concern to quote a price which would affect the association. The association price has for several months been entirely disregarded.

In the finished lines there are no important developments. The improvement in the demand for pipe and wire continues to grow, and tin plate are not so active as a month ago, but in general the demand is normal, and the plants are fairly busy.

The Hardware Market.

Orders for hardware continue to come in freely both from the customers and from the trade direct. Business generally shows a very nice increase over the corresponding period of last year. Season goods are moving out in good quantities, and general lines are being called for freely. A good business continues on nails and wire, orders coming in for frequent lots, showing that stocks in the hands of retailers are very light, as the demand is insistent that shipment be made immediately. Building conditions throughout the country are evidently good, judging from the demand for builders' hardware, and carpenters' tools. The demand for window glass continues active. The trade evidently putting their stocks in shape for summer business. Bicycle sundries and bicycles continue to move in good volume. Prices generally are very firm. The Bindley Hardware Company furnishes the following quotations:

Columbia pocket knives, discount 33 per cent; Albion hatchets, discount 40 and 10 per cent; Bindley cabin shovels, $6 50 per doz.; Great Western files, discount 70 and 10 per cent; sheet iron, base $2 60@2 85 per 100 pounds; galvanized sheet iron, discount 70 and 10 per cent; sash weights, per ton, $27 00; window glass, first three brackets 90 and 10 per cent off list October 1, 1904; above third bracket, 90 and 20 per cent off list October 1, 1904. PROSPECTS FOR PEACE BRIGHTEN IRON TRADE

Japan Has Already Placed Large Order in United States for Trucks and Other Railway Supplies.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, May 31.—The Iron Trade Review says: Conditions have not been favorable for calm consideration of the markets, but there has been much trading for future deliveries and will soon be declared in the far east, and that as the smoke of battle disappears an era of progress and prosperity will be inaugurated. The benefits of such a change cannot fail to be felt in the United States, for, unless all indications are misleading, the demand for materials is not merely for battleships and guns, but also for countless implements of peace, will be very great.

A cablegram from the Japanese war department at Tokyo orders the delivery by an Eastern Pennsylvania company of 1,000 trucks and several thousand axles and supplies to Port Arthur for use by Oyama's army in equipping the Manchurian railway. The order was placed tentatively months ago, its consummation depending on the result of Taft's meeting with Rojestvensky.

The leading features of the markets have been continued dullness in pig iron, with buyers' ideas firmer than those of the south, prices on finished material well maintained as a rule, with strong demand for plates and merchant pipe, and a slight improvement in the demand for scrap. It does not seem probable the United States Steel Corporation will buy Bessemer iron from the merchant furnaces for June delivery. The rail tonnage for this year now amounts to about 1,000,000, and the 25th pound standard sections will continue through the year. The apportionment of tonnage decided upon for 1905 remains unchanged.

PRICES NOT AFFECTED BY DISSOLUTION OF POOL

Steel Business Keeps Its Normal Course. Deadlock in Pig Iron Business Remains Unbroken.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, May 31.—The Iron Age tomorrow will say: The announcement that the associations in steel rails, plates, beams and steel bars had been dissolved may be dismissed as possessing only casual interest. It has not in any manner affected the prices of the commodities involved. There has been no violent rupture nor any of that savage price-cutting which usually follows the termination of pools, with its readjustment of prices on undelivered balances of old contracts, which guarantee against them.

There are no indications that the deadlock between buyers and sellers of pig iron has been broken, and there is no indication that consumption in the foundry branches is falling off. On the contrary, some of the jobbing foundries are confessedly doing a growing volume of work, so that we may be on the eve of the belated expansion in the consumption in that quarter. The markets for foundry iron, throughout the country are slightly weaker, nevertheless, which is the reflex action of the lessened demand from the steel interests.

Pig iron production is falling off. The Steel Corporation is blowing out such isolated plants as Niles, Columbus and Zanesville, and some merchant furnaces are stopping work. The steel market is easier and some of the makers are hunting for orders here and abroad. This is in sufficient part of the closing down of mills rolling the lighter lines, notably in plates and sheets, either for repairs or for the adjustment of wages.

Foreign Money Markets.

LONDON, May 31.—Money was much wanted and supplies were scarcer in the market today. Trading on the stock exchange was quieter with the subsidence of the Paris scare excitement. The movements were irregular. Consols were easier, but recovered at the close. Home rails were in good investment demand despite unfavorable traffic returns. Americans were quiet, pending the receipt of New York's opening prices and were decidedly easier on realizations. They rallied later and closed firm. Japanese advanced for purchase. Imperial Japanese government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 103¾. Consols for money, 81⅛; consols for the account, 81 5-16. Bar silver steady at 26 13-16d an ounce; the rate of discount for short bills is 2⅛ per cent, the rate of discount for three months' bills is 2⅛ per cent.

PARIS, May 31.—Prices on the bourse today opened weaker owing to the fears expressed in St. Petersburg dispatches that Russia will insist on a continuation of the war in the far east. Late peace sentiment predominated and strengthened the market, which closed firm. Russian Imperial 4s were quoted at 88.85 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 500. Three per cent rentes, 90 francs 80 centimes for the account. Exchange on London, 25 francs 18½ centimes for checks.

BERLIN, May 31.—Trading on the bourse today was very quiet. Exchange on London, 20 marks 47½ pfg. for checks. Discount rates, short bills, 3¾ per cent; three months' bills, 2¼ per cent.

MARKET LINES SHOW SIGNS OF WEAKENING

Flour Is Being Shaded and Green Goods and Produce Are Growing Cheaper.

There is a weaker tone all around to the local markets. Flour is shading off 30 cts, though quotations remain the same. There is every indication that a break is coming in the wheat market and this will bring the price of flour down considerably. Dealers look for it to drop rapidly within the next few days.

Green goods quotations are not changed generally, but prices are inclined to rule a little lower. Dealers report business good, but supplies are growing more plentiful and this makes for a lower market. Berries have stiffened up a little, as the weather in the berry-growing districts is not so favorable as it should be to produce the best fruit. Within another week raspberries will be in market, and these will largely take the place of the strawberries, which have the call today.

Cheese is on the decline and the market has not as yet reached its good stage. The best time for the cheese dealer will come in about six weeks from now, when harvesting begins. That is when the country people begin buying cheese, and the demand creates at that time is phenomenal. From that until after the threshing is all done the cheese business has its best days. The prices dropped locally yesterday and may go down again, although dealers think it is about at low point.

HAY AND GRAIN

Receipts.

Receipts of hay and grain yesterday were as follows: Pennsylvania lines, 24 cars hay, 11 cars oats, 8 cars corn, 4 cars straw, 1 car feed. P. Ft. W. & C. R. R., 19 cars hay, 2 cars oats, 2 cars corn. B. & O., 15 cars hay, 2 cars oats, 1 car corn.

No changes were made in hay and grain quotations yesterday, although a fairly good business was conducted on the exchange. The sharp advance in corn prices yesterday, due to the May corner, is looked upon as the last of the corner. Aside from the speculative features in western markets the conditions are generally satisfactory.

New orleans bull support and active covering attributed to professionals, who had sold on the short turn of last week and Monday. Further increasing apprehensions concerning the new crop were the factors, sentiment in this direction being stimulated by the details of the weekly crop bulletin of the government.

ASKS PURGING OF COURT RECORD

Attorney Wants Reference to Judge's Relative Stricken Out of a Case.

BIG SUIT AGAINST RAILROAD

Attorney James H. Beal, for the Grant and Liberty Street Railway Company, yesterday sought to have the record purged of the statement made in the motion to discontinue the quo warranto proceedings, in which it was charged that one of the councilmen alleged to have been improperly influenced in voting for the franchise, was a near relative of Judge Marshall Brown. The effort was opposed by Attorney A. Leo Weil for the Voters' Civic league. Attorney Beal contended that the allegation was impertinent and scandalous and should be stricken out in fairness to the court, as the charges were merely an unqualified statement. Attorney Weil argued the court was entitled to a full bench in the trial and he could not see why such supersensitiveness was shown by the opposing counsel. He contended it was not the fault of the parties who instituted the suit that developments had been such as contained in the allegations, and could not help if a relative of the court was charged as alleged. He argued the charges made were given as one of three reasons for a discontinuance of the case and should be permitted to remain on the records of the case which was now a sealed book.

Judge Macfarlane took the papers asking if the motion in which the objectionable statement was made was not one of a series. He was informed that it was, and the court's ruling will likely be on all the motions.

Train Interfered With Firemen.

The suit of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company against the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company to recover $250,000 damages was taken up before Judge Joseph Buffington in the United States circuit court. The suit grows out of the destruction by fire of the plant of the Monongahela Tin Plate Company, which was operated by the plaintiff company and which it is claimed resulted from the defendant company running a freight train through the property of the tin plate company in such a manner that the firemen were hindered in their work and the plant destroyed. The tin plate works were located on the Monongahela river at the foot of South Fifteenth street. On January 27, 1904, fire broke out which it is alleged could have easily been extinguished had not the freight train blocked the Fifteenth street crossing and prevented the firemen from laying a line of hose. Among the witnesses were several firemen and policemen who testified that the train crew refused to stop when requested to do so.

The case of the William Kenedick Company against the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal Railroad Company to recover for extra work in the construction of the road, was discontinued at the request of the attorneys for both parties in the suit. It was stated that a settlement had ben agreed upon.

Allegheny Residents Protest.

Thirty-five residents of Marshall avenue, Allegheny, have petitioned common pleas court No. 2 to set aside the award of viewers assessing benefits against their properties by reason of the grading on Marshall avenue. They claim their properties are not liable for the assessment for the reason that the question of benefits and damages had been adjudicated in common pleas court No. 3, No. 237, February term, 1886. They further claim the assessment is illegal because there is no legal ordinance authorizing the improvement, but the strongest reason given is that the city of Allegheny is estopped from assessing benefits on abutting property by reason of accepting the deed to Riverview park, subject to the condition that the city would, at its own cost, construct and maintain Marshall avenue.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against Joseph H. Simpson, proprietor of the Atlas saloon, Sixth avenue, in the United States district court. Simpson's place had been closed on a landlord's warrant Monday, and the action of his creditors was not unexpected. The petition was filed by Charles A. Muehlbronner with a claim of $5,000; William J. Adams, $4,700; Shad Gwilliam, $500, and Knapp Bros. $462.74.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed by Joel H. Gates, a lumberman of Clinton. His liabilities are $17,188.62, and his assets $21,536.44, principally composed of uncollectable accounts.

Opinion by Judge Young.

Judge Young handed down an opinion in the case of John Reslep against L. M. Kelly, an action in which a jury trial was dispensed with and the case submitted to the court. The action was to recover $900 alleged to be a balance due on three lots in the Highland View plan, Twenty-first ward. The court finds that Hasley holds the land by a clear title and his deed will convey to the defendant a clear title to all the lots. Judgment is directed for the plaintiff for $900.

Elizabeth Clark filed an ammended bill in equity naming Joshua Kissick and 24 others as defendants. The suit is for the partition of the property of Maria Kissick, who died in 1903 intestate, leaving a number of brothers and sisters and their heirs. The property is located in Thirteenth and the Seventh ward, Pittsburgh, and is so divided that certain heirs only get the 1-252 part.

Andras Csucka entered suit against the Hungarian Greek Catholic Benedicial society of Homestead, to recover $245 and interest. He claims he should have received $5 for 67 weeks while confined to his home as the result of an injury, but only received $90.

MONEY FOR ARMORIES.

Local National Guard Organizations to Get Lion's Share of the State Military Appropriation.

Officers of the local organizations of the National Guard of Pennsylvania will not be slow in making their requests for a share of the appropriation of $250,000 by the state at the last session of the legislature for new armories. Inasmuch as the eastern regiments are well provided for the Eighteenth and Fourteenth regiments and Battery B of Pittsburgh will ask for their portion of the fund. Gov. Pennypacker will appoint a commission of five and the local officers of the guard will make immediate requests upon this body.

The battery will be entitled to $50,000 under the state act. The artillerymen now have convenient quarters and the state aid will enable them to have a model armory.

BOARD BILL SUIT RESULTS IN CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY

Alderman C. C. McGovern of the West End and Supt. John Dailey of the West End traction lines, each gave $500 bail before Alderman Walsh yesterday for their appearance in court. On last Saturday the defendants were charged with conspiracy by John Gallagher, a former employe of the traction company. The case grew out of a previous suit entered by Mrs. Gallagher before Alderman McGovern for the collection of a board bill. Attorney Jere Carney took the case to court without a hearing.

Immense Clothing Purchase and Sale

By One of the Most Remarkable and Largest Deals Ever Known to the Trade We Can Offer Extraordinary Suit Values

A prominent Eastern manufacturer who has long been favorably known as the producer of dependable and stylish clothing found, that owing to the late spring, he had entirely too large a stock of suitings on hand. Many of these woolens would have been regularly made up into suits that would sell for $16.50, others were of the grade that would bring $15, and none of these cloths, when made up, would bring less than $12.50, for this tailor turns out nothing cheap or unworthy.

He made a proposition to us to make up this entire stock of woolens, and the price was fixed at so far below the regular wholesale figures that we can sell these garments at from ½ to ⅓ less than they should rightly bring.

These suits arrived yesterday and this morning are placed on the tables of our clothing department—a magnificent array, comprising hundreds and hundreds of what are undoubtedly the most liberal clothing bargains ever presented to the men of Pittsburgh. Every suit has been critically tailored and as carefully made as if the full prices of $16.50, $15 and $12.50 were charged. These suits must not be judged by the sale price of $8.65, they are worth every cent of the former named figures.

These suits will bear the most critical examination—every detail of workmanship has been properly looked to and we can guarantee them for wear, style and quality just as fully as if the full prices were paid.

This purchase is phenomenal indeed, as the majority of these suits are in the very latest grey effects which are now absolutely "The Thing." When many houses are putting premiums on grey suits and getting more for grey than the identically same pattern would sell for in any other color—we are offering these ultra-modish suits far below what you would expect to pay. The coats are the very newest sack effects, cut to conform to fashion's ideas and in a way which insures correct fit. If the positive saving of from $4 to $8 in the getting of a dependable summer suit is any object to you—then do not miss this sale.
